A Change of Face

Applying heavy red crayon to the mouth of Mercury Staffer Willard S. Randall, right, is Eddie Dullum, left, chief clown with the Cole brothers, Clyde Beatty circus. Dullum and Randall spent Wednesday morning on the road with the circus preparing for the reporter's role as clown ringmaster at tomorrow's 4 p. m. matinee at Pottsgrove High school field, Route 663. Randall will ride an elephant, play clown and greet area folks to the Jaycee's sponsored show.

ON THE ROAD WITH THE CIRCUS—Whoever said the circus is a thing of the past just hasn't seen one lately.

The Cole Brothers, Clyde Beatty circus, one of the world's largest, is very much alive.

When it comes to Pottstown for two performances tomorrow, area folks will get some of the picture of circus life I did in my first day with the circus.

If anything, I learned, the circus is livelier than ever. Seasoned performers backed this up with these observations:

"There's more room for skill and variety without all the hollow showmanship and foolish spending of the old days", said Clyde Beatty, regarded as the world's foremost animal trainer.

"Kids are the same as always. They like to laugh, to be awed by daring routines, to thrill at breathtaking stunts", said Eddie Dullum, chief clown and retired college professor.

"Youngsters aren't the only ones who still like a circus. Adults do too. The circus has something they can't find in movies or television. That's why, despite contrary reports, more people go to the circus now than ever before", said William English, circus manager.

BUT THIS was my first time at the circus and I had to learn myself.

It was a strange atmosphere. Everyone hurried about in what looked like organized confusion. Quickly I had to fall in with the routine, or be lost in the rush.

First came rehearsal for my role as a clown at the matinee

In full clown regalia, Mercury Reporter Willard S. Randall practiced Wednesday for his special clown ringmaster role at tomorrow's 4 p. m. matinee performance with the Cole brothers, Clyde Beatty circus at Pottsgrove High school field, Route 663. Randall spent Wednesday on the road with the circus, and will return for the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored event.

A Lot of Performer

Novice circus performer and the world's fattest woman shake hands as they talk over the day's performance Wednesday on the lot of Cole brothers, Clyde Beatty circus. For the 685 pound sideshow performer, known as Tiny Ella, it was just another day at the circus. But for Mercury Staffer Willard S. Randall, left, it was the first day on the road with the circus in preparation for tomorrow's special clown ringmaster performance at the 4 p.m. matinee at Pottsgrove High school field.

Crippled Children Will Get Free Ringside Circus Seats

Crippled children will have a free day at the circus tomorrow!

The Pottstown Jaycees, sponsoring the circus here, will take the children to the circus, provide comfortable reserved seats, and then return them to their homes.

In conjunction with The Mercury, the Jaycees will provide sunshine to kids who otherwise might not be able to see the big show.

Parents of crippled children aged 4 to 16 are asked to dial The Mercury, FA 3-3000, to make reservations for seats and transportation. The offer is open to those crippled children who live in Pottstown, the three Pottsgroves and North Coventry township.

Call FA 3-3000. Deadline for arrangements is 10 a. m. Friday.

The humanitarian Jaycees also are providing the Salvation Army with tickets for underprivileged children, and are bringing to Pottstown a busload of 40 patients from Pennhurst school.

Borough to Base Bills On Average Water Use

Not home when the man comes to read the water meter?

Don't worry. You'll get a bill anyway.

A new system instituted by the water department provides for an average cost bill when the actual meter reading isn't available.

Borough Manager Robert H. McKinney explained at Wednesday night's water committee meeting that the new system is patterned after similar bills sent out by the gas and electric companies.

"Now when a meter reader goes out and the person isn't home," he noted, "he leaves a card for the home-owner to fill in the reading."

"The only trouble is that few people bother sending back the filled-in card. This means a call to find out when they'll be home and then another trip out to the property by the meter reader," McKinney continued.

"Under the new system, if the person isn't home, a bill with the average cost will be sent and an adjustment made when the meter reader visits the house the next time."

THE NEW system will go into effect shortly with a letter to all water subscribers in the borough's franchise area—Pottstown, West Pottsgrove and parts of North Coventry township.

Several other administrative and bookkeeping changes were instituted since Utilities Director Donald K. Jones took over as head of the water department last month. He replaced Ralph A. Thomas who resigned unexpectedly as finance director and head of the department.

In other action, the water committee authorized a study of means to finance the construction and replacement of water mains.

McKinney explained that "funds are almost exhausted"

Get Hot! Try Luck at Guessing Warmest Day

How do you beat the heat?

While not guaranteeing a preventive against the coming warm days, The Mercury weather contest provides readers with an opportunity for fun by second guessing the weatherman.

The contest, which opened Monday, has already brought in the first prognostications from the area's amateur meterologists.

The rules are simple. All you have to do is fill out the entry blank in today's Mercury, pinpointing the exact time and date the thermometer will hit its peak for the months of June,

TraditionallyMerry May Sets No Marks

While it may have seemed the coldest, rainiest, cruelest May in many a year, you wouldn't have known it by the weather score they tallied Wednesday.

May, 1956, was colder. There was less than a half inch more rain than normal. No low temperature records were broken.

But in spite of the box-score bamboozling, Pottstown and the area won't be misled into believing it was "The Merry Month of May."

On six of the last nine mornings during the month, readings fell below 50—the coldest reading was 43 on the fourth. Many of these mornings, low records were threatened, but none were cracked.

The enigma as far as the rain was concerned was this—although the official total measurement was only 3.38 inches, about a third of an inch over average, it rained on an average of more than two out of every three days.

The mean temperature for the month—62.3 degrees—held up at only two degrees below normal because clear days following chilly nights allowed the sun to warm things up into the high 70s many days.

June Will Start On Right Note; Sunny, Warm

What is so rare as a day in June?

Pottstown and the area will get a chance to find out today, when a rarity will occur: it will be mostly sunny and warmer, with a high of 82.

Now that's a change, and the new month promises more of the same according to the extended forecast.

It will be not so cold this morning as May made a habit of being recently. The low expected is about 52, followed by some morning cloudiness.

The warming trend will continue tomorrow, with another mostly bright and cheery day, then a few clouds and some showers by nightfall.

SPARKS FLY AT MEETING OF AUTHORITY

Proposed Pottsgrove School Bids Questioned

SOLICITOR CHALLENGES ARCHITECT-ENGINEER

A small but significant detail in contractor's specifications on the proposed Pottsgrove Elementary school caused a clash of personalities and ideas at a special meeting of the Pottsgrove School authority Tuesday night.

"If you want to get smart about this, Mr. Hartman—I can say this is the second time I've told you about this!" said Attorney Jules Pearlstine, solicitor for the school authority. "You got me in trouble with this same issue in the school you built in Montgomeryville. Let's not get into personalities!"

Solicitor Pearlstine was referring to a portion of the excavator specifications drawn up by architect-engineer Clarence O. Hartman.

BOARD OKAYS CENSUS FOR TOWNSHIP

Occupational Status Of Residents Is Sought

The West Pottsgrove School board approved a motion to have a census taken of township residents at a special meeting Wednesday night in the high school office.

The census will enumerate children as well as adults. The tally will determine occupational classifications for tax levying purposes of adults. The count of children is planned for future school requirement estimates.

The special meeting was called to iron out details in the tentative budget which is expected to be adopted June 13, the time of the regular board meeting. That date is also the final date for formal adoption of the budget.

Because of a joint board meeting also scheduled for this time, board members called Wednesday's meeting to take care of routine business, so adoption of the budget would be facilitated at the June meeting.

In other business, Donald Kulp formerly resigned as president of the board, and John LaPish was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Kulp will assume the secretary's office in July. Stanley Boyer, present secretary, will remain on the board after he leaves office.

Wetherill Gets Backing for Governorship

Montgomery county Republican leaders and officials were asked Wednesday to throw their full support behind Commissioner Elkins Wetherill for the party's nomination for governor at the 1962 Statewide primary election.

Letters were sent by Alan L. Emlen, spearhead of the Wetherill drive, to 30 key leaders and officials to recommend 100 persons to serve on a Montgomery county citizens committee for Wetherill for Governor.

Emlen, son-in-law of former Republican National Committeeman Jay Cooke, will serve as chairman of the committee.

Fog (Man Made) Causes Crash

A car and truck collided in the fog at Franklin and Master streets Wednesday.

That's right, fog.

Seems the borough spray truck was traveling South on Franklin street spraying a mist of insecticide. As it passed the Master street intersection, the mist was pretty dense.

At the same time, a car operated by Jane Showers, 858 Willow street, was traveling east on Master, while a truck driven by Floyd D. Spohn, Shanesville, was going west on the same street.

Both drivers said the first thing they heard was a crash. When the fog cleared, both had damaged left front fenders.

School Children Are Circulating Petition

ACTION FOLLOWS FATAL ACCIDENT

The Sisters of Mercy became policemen Wednesday.

In a dramatic illustration of their Order's name, the nuns guarded St. Philip Neri pupils crossing Route 29 at the spot where a classmate was fatally injured Friday.

And the children took home more than 200 petitions to be signed by parents and sympathetic neighbors, asking immediate action by East Greenville borough council to protect the Main and Sixth streets intersection.

Randall N. Urffer, 8 year old Third grader who darted into the path of a car on unguarded Main street, died Monday in Allentown hospital.

Many of his classmates will attend a high requiem mass to be offered for "Randy" in St. Philip Neri church Saturday at 10 a. m. by the Rev. Leo J. Letterhouse, rector.

Aviation Officials Okay Airport, If...

Aviation agency officials gave "conditional" approval Wednesday to the almost completed $250,000 improvement program at Pottstown Municipal airport.

Federal Aviation agency and Pennsylvania Aeronautic commission officials reported "several minor details" marred completed approval following a two hour inspection tour with borough officials and officials of the James J. Skelley Construction company.

Among the minor details were several areas that still require leveling and seeding and the realigment of the automatic control system for the runway lights.

The officials also gave the borough permission to start night operations after June 1 if a warning beacon on top of the reservoir is in operation. The light was installed several weeks ago and only requires connection to an electric company outlet.

PUTTING THE stamp of approval on the project—which included the lengthening of the main east-west runway to 2700 feet—were: Vincent Bonaventura, an airport lighting engineer for the FAA; Max Bard, an FAA engineer; and Thomas Stark, a PAC engineer.

Also making the inspection tour were Borough Manager Robert H. McKinney Jr.; John Pidcock, the borough's consulting engineer on the airport project; Paul S. Skelley, vice president of the construction company; John Basco, airport manager; Charles Snyder, borough electrician; and John Wenger, who constructed the airport in 1951.

Foreign Experts Declare Value Of Jet Airports

Every nation must have at least one airport capable of handling huge jet airliners if it wants to compete in the world market, two foreign aviation experts agreed Wednesday.

And they came to the agreement at the Pottstown Municipal airport — as unlikely a spot for a jet to land as the corner of High and Hanover streets.

The two — D.J.I.T. Panditarajne of Ceylon and Antonio Alvarado of Peru — joined Federal Aviation agency officials in touring the local airport as part of their seven month tour of American airfields.

"In Ceylon there are two large airports, capable of handling jet airliners, and two or three small airports like this one," Panditarajne explained. They are all built and owned by the government."

Sign-less Detour Snares Unwary Drivers in Norco

"You can't get there from here!"

This is the North Coventry answer to strangers traveling east on Route 183 trying to get to Pottstown.

In the dustbowl land of tan children and brown flowers that is North Coventry township, the main artery from Route 183 into Pottstown is Route 100, or South Hanover street.

But with South Hanover street uprooted and closed because of the million-dollar sewer project underway in Norco, there is no thoroughfare to Pottstown.

A stranger heading east toward Pottstown on Route 183 from perhaps Reading or Mt. Penn finds his path blocked with signs at Route 100 — "Detour", "Road Closed", "No Outlet."

If he defies these signs, swings around them and proceeds down South Hanover street, as many strangers — following local Norco residents — do, he will find a sudden journey's end halfway down South Hanover street. In the center of an uprooted dustbowl road, he can go no further and must turn around.

He goes back to the intersection and, in desperation, asks a passer-by how to get into Pottstown. The resident was asked this so many times the past week, it is now a joke to him, and he can only reply: "You can't get there from here!"

IF HE asks the operator of the garage at the intersection, he will be perhaps the 1000th person to do so. It has reached the point where the garage operator now has to pump more information than gas.

Finally, under direction, the motorist will continue east on Route 183 until he reaches Keim street, then turn left—still with no sign to guide him. At last he will cross the Keim street bridge into Pottstown.

This desperate situation has created a temporary Chinese maze in North Coventry — a maze of rising dust, confused motorists and annoyed residents. And no one seems willing to take the simple responsibility of

Traffic Maze Responsible for Dangerous Crash

The North Coventry street maze caused a near disaster Tuesday afternoon. While traffic was being directed around the blocked up and detoured intersection of Route 183 and Route 100 at 12:30 p. m. one motorist tried to get around the barriers and was confronted with a blacktopping machine.

In frustration he threw his car into reverse and backed up swiftly. But he failed to notice the Ramble Inn Service station behind him and backed into one of its double gas pumps.

The impact cause a fire to break out inside the gas pump, which was complicated by the operator's inability to get the door of the pump open. He raced for the fire extinguishers.

The fire was put out with no injuries, but operator of the station, Donald Keeler, added: "If the fire got to the tanks beneath the ground, I wouldn't be here now to tell you about it."

Operator of the car was Alfred Prestileo, Camp Hill.

10 MUST CURB PROPERTIES IN SEWER WORK

Borough - Township Program Is Scheduled

Ten property owners along Mervine street will be required to install curbing in connection with the joint borough—Upper Pottsgrove street and sewer program scheduled for this Summer.

The township, however, will assume the complete cost of the street and sewer program and the borough is expected to share the same costs on a 50-50 basis with the property owners.

There are about a dozen owners on each side of the borough-township dividing line, which runs down the center of Mervine street, but only five on each side still require curbing.

The assessable cost of the curbing — approximately $2000—will be paid entirely by the ten property owners. The major cost, however, is the $33,000 street and sewer project.

THE MERVINE street project —from North Hanover street to North Charlotte street—is the major street program for both the township and the borough this year. The project is approximately 1900 feet.

The entire project was let for

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE? — This is the question most frequently asked by motorists traveling east on Route 183 trying to get into Pottstown. The motorist faces a jumble of signs at the intersection of Route 100 and Route 183: "Detour", "Road Closed", "No Outlet", and finds himself no closer to his destination than he was ten minutes before.

erecting a few signs to direct the wandering motorist.

North Coventry township officials have disclaimed responsibility, stating it is the job of the sewer authority or the sewer contractor to erect signs.

"It's a moot question whose responsibility it is," said one township official. "I suppose the sewer authority is responsible. But they claim the picture changes day by day, and the expense of temporary signs would be prohibitive. South Hanover street should be open again by next week."

TWO SOLUTIONS to the problem, listed in order of complexity are:

1. Erect a sign pointing north to Pottstown on Route 183 under the 100 bypass. There is a break in the island, through which motorists could legitimately turn left and go down the bypass to Route 422 or King Street, at which point there are signs indicating Pottstown.

2. Erect a sign pointing north to Pottstown on Route 183 at Laurelwood road, before the motorist reaches the bypass. He could then turn left on Laurelwood road, continue driving until he reaches River road, and skirting the river, arrive at the Hanover street bridge, which is open.

In the meantime, Pottstown businessmen view North Coventry with rancor, knowing shoppers coming to Pottstown, by the time they travel six miles in detours from the overpass to the Keim street bridge, may begin to think: "Is it worth it?"

Former Pastor Gives Talk at Fairview Church

GLEN MOORE—Mrs. Walter Ford, Corr., Phone WH 2-2752

The Rev. Dr. David R. Stewart, Lingle, Wyo., and former minister, was guest speaker at Fairview United Presbyterian church. Dr. Stewart attended the United Presbyterian General assembly at Buffalo, N. Y., before arriving in Glen Moore to visit with many friends.

He administered the sacrament of baptism for Sherri Lee Leister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Leister with Elder John R. Hoffman, the infant's grandfather, assisting. For his sermon subject, Dr. Stewart described the "Keys to the Kingdom."

Edwin H. Kalemjian acted as superintendent for the opening devotions during Sunday school. Those having birthdays were Richard Clemmer Jr., Richard Reiter and Jay Kelly.

The humorous one act comedy, "Make Room for Rodney" was enjoyed by a large group. In the cast were Craig Kalemjian, Cathy Earnshaw, Ann Kalemjian, William Earnshaw, Barbara Earnshaw, James Earnshaw, James Williamson and Dick Clemmer. The play was directed by Mrs. Raymond Beiler who was assisted by Robert Reiter, Richard Reiter and Harry Crossan, stage hands, and Sally Galt, prompter. Advisors for the Junior and Senior Youth fellowships are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clemmer and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zuber.

NASA Official Estimates Red Space Ability

WASHINGTON (AP)—How far behind is the United States behind the Soviet Union in terms of rocket thrust? Dr. Wernher von Braun has estimated the lag at three years.

Here is the reply of Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration: "We don't know how far we are behind. I will tell you why: The Russians have shown us one basic rocket of about 800,000 pounds of thrust. This is their ICBM booster. They have used this throughout their space program.

"Until they show us the magnitude of the next step and when, it is very difficult to get any fix on what their rate is. This is our problem.

"If they do not come out before early 1963 or 1964, then we will surpass them. Immediately two months later they might leapfrog us. We do not have any accurate information on what the next step will be that they are taking and when they will bring it out. We assume they are working on a bigger booster."

Dryden gave this estimate May 15 before a House appropriations subcommittee; his testimony was released Wednesday.

He illustrated the difficulty of getting scientific information from the Soviet Union by mentioning their space probe which they said photographed the back side of the moon.

"Everyone who has looked at them—the pictures—believes that they are not single pictures but composites from many pictures," Dryden said.

"No one is quite sure as to how much touching up has been done."

11 DRIVERS SUSPENDED BY STATE

Local Man's License Revoked for Drunk Driving

A Pottstown man who was arrested in April on a drunk driving charge and sentenced to 45 days in the county prison had his driver's license revoked this week. The man is Johnny Barrett, 250 High street.

The list of suspensions and revocations was announced by the Bureau of Traffic Safety, Department of Revenue, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Other drivers whose licenses were suspended are:

Harold C. Maurey, Boyertown RD 3, improper passing, 15 days; Beatrice M. Smith, Douglassville RD 2, involuntary manslaughter, 30 days.

And Rafael R. Perez, Elverson RD 2, no operator's license, 90 days; Sullivan D. Allen Jr., North Star Trailer camp, Limerick, operating without license, one year; Kenneth L. Baker, 3851 Germantown pike, Collegeville, speeding, 30 days; Marlene F. Burgert, Pennsburg RD 1, exceptions to right of way, 15 days; Marlin M. Kehler, 79 Evans street, speeding, 60 days; Russell A. Nolt, Washington street, East Greenville, speeding, 30 days; and Charles A. Schaeffer, 1142 Philadelphia avenue, Gilbertsville, reckless driving, 15 days.

During the week covered by the report, 105 licenses in Pennsylvania were revoked; 1437 were suspended.

Its text:

"The tragic automobile accident in which a Third grade pupil at St. Philip Neri school was killed has dramatically focused attention on the inadequate safety provision for the children of this school.

"The school playground is located at the change from the highway speed limit of 50 miles per hour to the 35 mile per hour limit required in the borough.

"Realistically, however, most cars have not slowed even to the 35 mile per hour limit by the time they have reached the school property. Even 35 miles per hour is assuredly not a safe speed during the hours of school admission recess and dismissal.

"We feel that the following safeguards are necessary; (1) police protection, (2) a traffic light, and (3) a 15 miles per hour speed limit in the school zone and a 35 mile per hour limit for a reasonable and realistic distance approaching the school zone.

"Randy Urffer is dead because of our community negligence. We urge your prompt consideration and action so that the children of St. Philip Neri will begin their next scholastic year at a maximum of safety measures. Randy can not have died in vain."

THERE ARE 217 children attending the First to Eighth grades at the school, and it was reported nearly all of these were given copies of the petition.

It is expected that East Greenville council will be presented the documents at its June meeting.

While one councilman commented that "there isn't any time to do anything this year," a parent noted that the promise of steps taken which will result in protection by the Fall term, will be sufficient.

Pupils will pass the petitions in Red Hill, Green Lane and Pennsburg boroughs and Marlborough and Upper Hanover townships as well as East Greenville—for a show of sympathetic support.

NORTH END PROJECT IS APPROVED

30 Apartments Planned by Developers

RENT EXPECTED TO BE $135

A North End apartment development was approved by the Zoning Board of Adjustment Wednesday night—in less than 25 minutes and without opposition.

The quick and calm meeting was a far cry from the last zoning board hearing when the developers claimed it was "economically unfeasible" to build less than 48 apartments and residents of the area protested any large-scale development.

Sidney Hessan, a Philadelphia real estate agent and one of the financial backers of the $350,000 apartment, explained that the reduction from five to three buildings and the elimination of indoor parking—along with higher rents—now made the 30 apartments "economically feasible."

The rent on the two bedroom "luxury type" apartments was previously set at $125. Hessan indicated the renting price—"now that the apartments have more space"—will be $135.

The reduction from five buildings to three buildings also increased the lawn area to what Hessan called "practically a Palisades park."

THE 48 UNIT development was turned down originally by the planning commission and the zoning board because it failed to meet the 300 square feet per dwelling unit requirement of an R-1 residential zone. The 30 unit development provides 3400 square feet per family.

While the larger apartment was turned down by the zoning board on technical grounds, residents of the area were bombarding the board with petitions to oppose the development because of fears that it would lower the real estate values and increase congestion.

Not one person turned up to protest Wednesday's decision.

The garden-type apartments will be constructed on the east side of Warren street on a two-acre site between Prospect and Grace streets. Each of the three buildings will have ten apartments — four each on the first and second floors and two on a half-below ground, half-above ground basement.

Two County Women Win Irish Sweepstakes

Two Montgomery county residents — Mrs. Nell Craig of La Mott, Cheltenham township and Mrs. Mary McCloskey of Ardmore — were announced Wednesday as holders of $140,000 Irish sweepstakes tickets on Psidium, the first place horse.

Mrs. Craig said she bought the lucky ticket — TRC71418 — because the initials were the same as her husband's Thomas Robert Craig.

"Dear God be praised," she said when notified. "I'll give some of the money to my church (St. Matthias Episcopal) and some to my daughter.

"And I think maybe I'll take a trip to Ireland with what's left."

Mrs. McCloskey's husband died four years ago. She said "I'm so excited I can hardly believe it."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love & Marriage

Her Belongings Have No Privacy

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A month ago I came to keep house for my father. His housekeeper just up and left him.

I have a sister who can't take care of herself, but she and her husband come to visit us and they go upstairs and go through all my things and carry things down and of course, I don't like this at all.

That was my Dad's problem, too, when he had a housekeeper. All the children would come up and mess in her things and of course no one likes that.

So what should I do? Tell them to stay home or come to visit us and stay out of my things? I sure wouldn't do that to her when I go to visit them.

MRS. S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Could it be that your father's housekeeper "just up and left him" because she got sick and tired of this intolerable nuisance? Better get it settled once and for all if you're thinking of getting him another housekeeper.

At any rate, of course, such behavior on the part of your sister and her family is utterly inexcusable and shouldn't be allowed to go on. The question is naturally, what method of trying to stop it might be most effective.

My idea would be that before saying anything at all to your sister, you see how things would work out if you locked the door to the room you occupy upstairs so that nobobdy but yourself can get in.

This should certainly get the idea across to her, without the necessity of any words, that you aren't going to stand for what she's been doing, and I'd think even she could hardly have nerve enough to demand that you leave the door open for her and the others to run in and out as they please.

It may be that locking the door without giving any explanation might be all that would be needed to take care of the situation.

But if your sister did raise any kind of fuss about it, then the next thing would be to tell her, as quietly and unemotionally as you can, that you don't like locked doors, either, but that it seems to be the only way to keep your belongings to yourself as they should be.

You could add that if she'll give you her promise that the rummaging through your things each time she and her family come to the house won't occur again, you'll be more than glad to leave the door open.

If worst comes to worst, then I think your father should step in and take a firm stand in the matter, telling your sister he won't permit anyone coming into the house and disturbing anyone else's belongings and unless she'll guarantee that there will be no more of it, he'll have to ask her not to come to the house at all.

It would certainly be sad to have a feud occur in the family over such a thing, but this is certainly a situation which nobody should have to put up with in their own home — or anywhere else, either.

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been going steady with the same boy for almost six months now. When I first went with him he was very polite and gentle, but he went away for awhile and when he came back he was altogether different. Now he's quarrelsome and even punches me around sometimes.

I don't want to break up with him because I like him too much, so could you advise me what to do?

GRACIE

Dear Gracie:

There's only one thing to do and that is to tell this boy that if he doesn't behave himself like a gentleman you're through. Say you have always liked him very much and that you'd be sorry to lose him as a friend, but that you don't intend to stand for any rough stuff — and let him know you mean it.

If he doesn't care enough about you to treat you properly, could you really keep on liking him? I hope you're not that silly.

Friendliness is contagious. The trouble is, many of us wait to catch it from someone else, when we might better be giving them a chance to catch it from us.—(Donald A. Laird)

Aid Faltering Industry

J. Wayne Knause, president of Pottstown borough council, appointed a citizens committee to help the community with its transit problems. The citizen approach was decided upon after the Pottstown Rapid Transit company told Pottstown it was ready to throw in the sponge in the face of diminishing returns.

The bus company said it couldn't afford to continue public transportation. Its stock wasn't paying dividends and investors were restless. The company didn't have money to replace worn out equipment, it said. It was ready to sell and get out of business.

Mr. Knause wisely asked community leaders to share the worry about public transportation. The problem wasn't the borough's, transit company officials said. Pottstown Rapid Transit wasn't asking borough subsidy, but it wanted the community to know it was at rope's end.

So possibly civic leaders can come up with an answer. That's wishful thinking, because Pottstown can't afford to drop its bus system. Pottstown is in the same dilemma as many another town, wherever public transportation has been squeezed between rising costs and dwindling patronage.

What can Pottstown do?

There's no ready answer here. But there's the case of Salem, Ore., which may bear review. There, too, the privately owned transit system was loss ridden. In Salem, the city fathers wisely decided against burdening the taxpayers with municipal ownership.

With the loss of their jobs staring them in the face, the drivers set up a cooperative scheme to operate the busses. They cut their own wages to $10 a day and gave up other benefits to reduce operating costs and restore the solvency of the transit system. After 22 months, income rose so well that wages were increased three times, first to $12 a day, then to $13, and finally to $14.

This may not be the answer in Pottstown, but in Oregon it was an answer to unemployment. High wage scales are of little value to men who have no jobs.

Such cases are not rare. It happened in many industries. Many communities found flexibility of wage rates keeping plants in their towns. Unions, too, were noted for investing in firms to keep wheels of industry moving.

The die casting industry, in which Pottstown certainly is interested, noted such a saving move in Toledo. There union employes of the Schultz Die Casting company voted to accept a pay cut asked by the company to put the firm in a more competitive position.

Walter Gilmore, chief steward of the union, said company officials assured the union if the reduction was agreed to, an effort would be made to keep the Toledo operation going instead of moving it elsewhere or liquidating assets of the firm.

There may be a question about unfair labor practices here, but seriously, such cooperation increases the output of faltering industries and restores men to their jobs.

Slashed to the Bone!

IF you were afraid the new Democratic administration was going to be one of financial irresponsibility, you can stop worrying.

Congress just reduced the $6702 budget allowance for Chief Justice Earl Warren's chauffeur—to $6700.

The reduction, by the House Appropriations committee, was part of a process of "rounding off uneven little sums."

This is a saving of .000000002 percent of the Administration's $805,584,202 budget request for operations of the State and Justice departments and the Federal judiciary.

Overall, however, the committee did "round off" the request to $751,300,050.

What's the Use?

INJUSTICE: If you make out your income tax correctly you go to the poorhouse; if you don't, you go to jail.

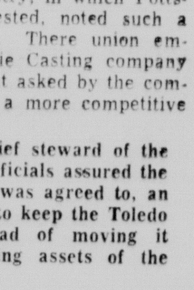
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where cattle rustlers in southern Oklahoma have been disguising themselves as tourists, a sheriff reports. Not to be confused, by any means, with those dude ranch visitors who like to disguise themselves as cowhands!



The sea pigeon and the sea hare are the same creature. Wonder what it is — a long-eared bird or a high-flying rabbit?

And say: "Ski Season to Open June 23" says a sport page headline. Don't get excited—the place is Portillo in Chile, where Winter is about to begin!

His Lawn Sacred, Dirties Others

The 'Dirtiest Man?'

To the Editor: I sometimes see the "meanest man" news items in the paper.

I want to add one. It's my neighbor who walks his dog on my lawn. Not his own, you mind. On another. He always hurries, too, so nothing will happen on his lawn. On mine it's all right.

I did some figuring. If there are 1000 dogs in Pottstown and area, they drop more than 4 tons of dirt every year. That makes Pottstown pretty dirty but not as dirty as the man who wouldn't defile his own lawn but finds it perfectly all right to dirty another's.

See Ideals Declining

To the Editor: It was not foreign aid nor government handouts that brought "underdeveloped" America great attainments.

Rather, it was the mighty and illuminating ideals emanating from the spiritual fibers of its people that made America the land I love.

Yet, in deep anxiety amidst the present and widespread decay of family life, general moral indifference, and lack of honor among its people, I plainly see the abandonment of these higher ideals and the natural decline of a once-great America.

Stop Sunday Sales

To the Editor: I don't agree with your editorial "Isn't It Time to be Honest?"

After the Communists came to power in Russia, one of the first things they did was to abolish Sunday as a day of rest.

We are approaching something like this in this town, and I presume elsewhere. Some businesses which used to close up on Sunday now have to stay open owing to competition.

After a while, it will be as in Russia. Our young people will have no reverence for Sunday as we oldsters have. There is no reason for shopping on Sunday except for essentials or emergencies.

I belive, as many others do, that the proper legislation should be used to curb this unnecessary work on Sunday.

Pottstown CHURCH GOER

Communism's Fallacy

To the Editor: Communism bears in itself the elements of its own futility. It is based on the assumption that a man will work with greater energy and intelligence for someone else than he will for himself.

This idea is so utterly against human nature that it is unthinkable. Communism can be made to work, after a fashion, only when enforced by the firing squad or the salt mines

Spring City PATRIOT

Compassion for Cuba

To the Editor: I hope that it might reflect the true feeling of many North American people if the United States were to respond to Fidel Castro's recent ransom note, not with hate and superiority, but with compassion for the Cuban people.

We might respond by sending them more than they asked for.

As a gift to the Cuban people, we might send them 500 bulldozers plus at least an equal value of, for instance, farm machinery. Along with this a public announcement, not merely reiterating our stand against many Castro policies, but emphasizing and highlighting our desire to help the Cuban people.

We would, in fact, be thus helping them, as well as supporting Castro's stated goal of increasing agricultural production.

Some might find this suggestion analogous to the New Testament suggestion to walk two miles instead of one, or to give one's coat and cloak instead of just the coat.

Threat to Nation

To the Editor: It seems we should be concerned about what appears to be a rapid tightening of controls and of censorship in our country.

This administration seems to be moving toward a government-controled press along with other controls.

History may well repeat itself. Once these freedoms are lost, they are not easily regained. I believe our democracy is in greater trouble than it has been since its birth.

The Voice of Broadway

Gossip in Gotham

DAVID NIVEN was picked up by an Israeli patrol boat while he was swimming. Until he proved his identity, they held him as "an Egyptian spy."

Copies of a bootleg record, taped during a stag testimonial to a movie mogul, are being peddled about town at $35 a slice — and there are plenty of takers. The dialogue was deep purple, and among the speakers immortalized on the disc were a highly respected comedian, a not-so-highly-respected comedian, and a TV personality who is simply adored by the "moms" of America. (Would they be shocked!)

Lillian Roth is fighting the biggest fight of her life, and appears to be winning.

Charles Van Doren has plans, he tells friends, but he won't reveal them until after the quiz scandal trials are over. Most of the chums guess he'll move to Europe and devote himself to writing.

JIMMY STEWART hasn't stopped grieving over the death of his great pal, Gary Cooper.

Actress Carroll Baker's new secretary, Julie MacDonald, is the recently estranged wife of Gene Quill, who plays alto sax in Gerry Mulligan's band. Actually Julie is a pianist of concert quality, but she hasn't been feeling well enough of late to pursue her musical career.

Betty Grable, who enjoys gambling, has been making the Las Vegas croupiers happy.

Gary Crosby's wife, Barbara, is bedded with a virus attack. She'll have to remain out of his nightclub act until the doctors give their okay.

Arrangements are being made for Connie Francis to sing in the Copa lounge between the regular shows. She's playing to SRO audiences and feels that she'd like to try to sing a few ditties for those who come to see her but can't get in because there simply aren't any seats left in the main room.

DANNY KAYE'S film, "On the Double," will double its initial investment before mid-July, surprising the trade skeptics who firmly believed Danny wasn't a major box-office draw.

Bob Hope has been signed for Sid Bernstein's New England jazz festival — quite a coup. The comedian will appear on the afternoon of July 1.

Louis Jordan's wife, Quique, keeps playing the role of the perfect French matron. She serenely denies that her husband's appearances around Paris with Tina Livanos have any unusual significance. "We've all been friends for years," is her attitude.

Witty Cynthia Lindsey, the West Coast's answer to Jean Kerr, has arrived in Gotham to deliver the manuscript of her new book to Simon and Schuster. She calls it "Home Is Where You Hang Yourself."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

HELEN M., aged 37, is a plump housewife.

"Dr. Crane," she wailed, "my husband seems to be losing his love for me.

"He doesn't kiss me, except for a fatherly little peck on the cheek when he leaves for the office.

"Could it be the fact I have put on 35 pounds since we married? On my wedding day, I weighed 115 but now I am 150.

"What do you think about the new tin-can diets where we buy a supply of special milk to lose weight?"

HELEN'S PROBLEM is partly the fact she now looks "maternal" and elephantine. Men link romance with slender girls.

Her husband is 43, which is the age where he needs extra stimulation to re-awaken his erotic life. Helen gives him less.

For Helen's plump rolls of fat fall down like an apron when she takes off her girdle.

Remember, husbands don't grow romantic over their mothers. So when you wives begin to waddle around like a walrus and have a larger waistline than bustline, you are likely to become a "bust" as an erotic mate.

MANY A man past 40 grows a bit panicky at his platonic condition. So he first tries to revive his ardor towards his wife.

But suppose she feels like an elephant when he holds her on his knee?

Or chortles like a hippo as he tries to steer her over the dance floor.

Or waddles like a walrus when he escorts her to church or to a movie?

Often I have warned you fatties that you can't feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck.

So I urged Helen to lop off her useless folds of fat. The tin-can diets now so widely publicized are helpful.

"How to Interpret Dreams", is available to you for 20c if you write Dr. Crane, care of The Mercury and enclose a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: With both the Congress and members of the Federal Communications commission throwing large grains of sand into the new machinery proposed by FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow, it would appear that control of TV programing is going to lie more and more firmly in the hands of the three major networks.

Hollywood's TV film producers never had much of a say where programing was concerned. However, the past few years the networks have managed to take over the control of more and more shows from the advertising agencies.

There was a time when a show with a sponsor could write its own ticket. Nowadays the networks are blandly turning down such programs, building their schedules to suit themselves. Their argument is "balance," meaning a well-balanced diet of shows with a little of something for everybody (an argument which doesn't stand up too well in the light of CBS' Monday night scheduling of no fewer than five situation-comedy shows in a row).

UP UNTIL just recently, no single individual has ever been able to challenge the network control. But a comedian, of all people, has now done it — and successfully. It's being kept very quiet and nobody is talking about it officially, but it reportedly happened like this:

CBS was not too happy with "Checkmate" and planned to dump it at the end of the current season. This did not sit too well with Jack Benny, whose J and M Productions owns the show.

The unconfirmed report has it that Benny told the network if "Checkmate" were dropped he'd move over to NBC. "Checkmate" will be on the CBS 1961-62 schedule, Wednesday nights, 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock, all nice and tidy.

THIS KIND of pressure control, regardless of who wields it, is not good. The loser, as always, is the audience. "Checkmate" is far from being an outstanding show. It has come up with one or two rather good episodes (the Barbara Rush tour de force comes to mind) but it has also come up with some pretty bad ones.

The one starring Eve Arden, was as bad a script as I have seen on TV in many a long moon. It was routine, badly plotted, abominably written and as full of holes as a firing range target. Which was too bad because Eve Arden is an accomplished actress and there is nothing more painful than watching an accomplished performer struggling with an impossible script.

The question of who is to control what goes on TV is going to be with us for a long time. It actually cannot be solved to anyone's satisfaction until the advent of a nationwide system of pay TV — at which time the viewer, finally, and at long last, will take over with a firm hand; for he will present the one thing every TV executive understands completely — money.

Laos Debacle Taints Rusk Plea For Aid

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The spectre of a small Asiatic country, where millions of dollars and years of effort had failed to mobilize either government or people for their own defense against communism, hung over the Senate Foreign Relations Committee room Wednesday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk opened the Kennedy government's campaign for a five-year foreign aid program envisioning the expenditure of nearly $5 billion in the first year.

A message from the White House asked for $40 million to get the Peace Corps experiment started.

Senators asked what was wrong with administrative measures which despite plenty of money and personnel on hand, permitted the development of such situations as Laos.

The diplomatic answer, as it develops beyond the broad general statement of need given by Rusk, is that the aid program over the years has registered accomplishments which are only flyspecked by its failures. And that its successes will be greatly enhanced through the confidence inspired and the new stability promised by a continuing program. That has been one of the contentions of every administration since the five-year Marshall Plan pulled Europe out of the postwar economic and political fire.

The diplomats do not pretend to have found the answers in such cases as Laos, Ghana, Guinea and Cuba. The results in Poland and Yugoslavia are debatable. Only a beginning is being made in Latin America, where there has been a great deal of fumbling in an area where the United States should have known best how to act.

There are cross currents in Pakistan. They are due largely to jealousies and suspicions over the results of aid to India, and to Middle Eastern religious and political forces stemming from success in Israel and failure in Egypt. Korea is in ferment, weakening the worldwide defense line against Communism. Friendship with everyone has proved only pious, not feasible.

But Greece and Turkey stand firm on the southern flank of the European monument to the aid program.

It has helped alleviate both political and economic consequences of the retreat of America's allies from colonialism, and so contributed to stability in the aftermath of worldwide revolution

It is helping India through years of change, and contributing to the growth of her sane influence in an insane world, as in Southeast Asia and the Congo.

It maintains a bastion of solidity in Nationalist China off the Communist coast. It has contributed to North Africa's ability to withstand the waves of shock emanating from Algeria.

It has been administered by wise Americans, ugly Americans, and run-of-mine Americans, even as the government in Washington. It has not been all good, all bad, or all indifferent, nor will it be.

Foreign Experts Declare Value Of Jet Airports

the capital, Columbo, and at Negumbo — handle the international traffic that flows into the island nation of 8,000,000 people at the southern tip of India.

"The few small airports," he continued, "are used mostly by business firms because the cost of planes is still so high. They are beyond the reach of the average person and there is no pleasure flying as you have at this airport."

An engineer with the Ceylon government's department of public works, Panditarajne explained that "even most of the planes are owned by the government, and the person who wants to rent a plane must do so from the government."

Conditions in Peru, on the western coast of South America, are not much different—one airport with huge runways capable of handling the eight international flights daily and a single small airport "for private" planes 15 miles north of the capital city of Lima, Alvarado explained.

A second large airport in Lima, now handling the light domestic traffic, will be closed and merged with the jet airport because of a bad approachway.

WHILE the government owns the airports outright in Ceylon, in Peru the government subsidizes them through a nonprofit corporation, Corpac. And it is Corpac that Alvarado works for as an engineer.

"Things here are the same as in Ceylon and most other countries in South America," he explained. "People in Peru fly on business, or if they are rich enough they will go for a vacation to another country. But the pleasure flying you have here (in America) doesn't exist in my country."

Reporter Steps Under Bigtop

performance tomorrow at 4 p. m. at Pottsgrove High school.

This required half an hour for Eddie Dullum, veteran performer with 37 years of circus life to apply the make-up.

As soon as I was zipped into a clown costume, I went to the tent where 15 elephants, weighing upwards of five tons each, were making quick work of a ton of hay.

ONE OF these, Fanny, who became both nationally renowned and somewhat downhearted two weeks ago when stranded overnight in Palisades Park, N. J. was prodded in my direction by a handler's training hook.

My brief rehearsal and ride with Fanny reminded me of a drive in a truck with faulty springs. But neither Fanny nor myself was anything worse for wear when I set foot on the ground again.

By this time, all available hands were needed to help some 150 men and 15 elephants to hoist the bigtop into position. So I pitched in.

When we finished, several thousand yards of canvas pointed skyward, and everyone, myself included, glistened with sweat.

Circus performers sleep late, work hard, travel hard, but eat hardest of all. When the flag above the mess tent was raised, all work was dropped. Eating with gusto became the principle business at hand.

The mess tent resembled a performers' United Nations. Seated on rough plank benches and bowed over steaming plates of fried potatoes and beef were performers from almost every nation in Europe, South America, Scandinavia, and Asia.

THE LANGUAGE barrier posed no problem to this hungry lot. In vivid terms, such as "slide the grease" (butter) and "pass the cow" (milk), they asked for and got all they wanted to eat.

Lunch finished, the performers fled the tent as if it were on fire. Some returned to their trailers for a few extra hours sleep. The bulk pitched in to finish preparing for the first performance two hours later.

William English, veteran of more than a decade with Cole brothers circus, directed a dozen handlers and roustabouts in cleaning wild animal cages, feeding elephants, tigers and lions, and setting up the sideshows.

Clown Dullum went over revisions to seven comedy routines tried the first time at the matinee performance.

Clyde Beatty worked out with a pair of troublesome two year old lions recently added to his troupe.

AT 2:30 P. M. the first spectators began to flock around the different tents and exhibits. A Dixieland band broke into the strains of "St. Louis Blues," and the spectacular began in earnest.

To the jazz background of the band, the sideshow tentflaps went up, revealing everything from the standby menagerie of wild animals and reptiles to swordswallower and fat lady.

But the big show was about to begin in the main tent. And start it did, with one of the toughest performances ever for Clyde Beatty.

The trouble started when a two year old lion bolted from its perch in the center cage. First it roared ferociously and took swipes at other lions and tigers

Then it charged at Beatty. A shot from his blank pistol didn't stop it. A crack of the bull whip across its nose only further enraged it.

The lion turned towards its perch momentarily. Then it wheeled, charged straight at Beatty, and with a lightning sweep of its forepaw sent his chair flying across the cage. The next swipe missed his face by less than an inch.

A handler gave him a pole. Beatty thrust it at the lion, dropped his whip, and rushed from the cage, slamming the heavy door behind him.

Beatty was drenched with perspiration. Proof the close shave wasn't part of the act was clearly etched in the disturbed expression on his face. A handler wrapped a bathrobe around him, and the pair hurried from the tent.

A few minutes later, the lion gave one last spine tingling roar and stalked indignantly to his cage.

AFTER THIS, the rest of the performance seemed refreshing, although everyone, performers and audience alike, was outwardly shaken by the first routine.

Amusing clown stunts, daring trapeze and aerial routines, roller skating on a 50 feet high perch the size of a dinner table, all followed in rapid succession.

Another mishap was averted when a trio of aerialists, the Flying Redondos, missed a free swinging trapeze. Two fell headlong into the net below.

The grand finale came when all performers romped around the three rings riding and following the full complement of elephants.

Salary Hikes Boost Budget For Joint Board

The Northern Chester county Joint School board Wednesday night adopted an $826,957.50 budget for the fiscal year 1961-1962. The figure represents an increase of $63,275 over the present budget.

The final budget was practically identical to the tentative budget adopted earlier. Increases in teacher salaries and additional equipment at the Owen J. Roberts Joint Junior - Senior High school accounted for a large percentage of the increase.

At the budget meeting the board also elected Clarence A. Yocom as treasurer. Yocum, of North Coventry township, served as treasurer two years ago. He succeeds Mrs. Carolyn Brown, of West Vincent township.

Supervising Principal Paul H. Grim explained that more than half — $447,780 — of the entire budget represented instructional costs. The second largest outlay was $166,100 for debt service.

Other figures in a department by department breakdown are: general control, $14,950; auxiliary agencies, $73,150; school plant operation, $57,855; school plant maintenance, $11,322; fixed charges, $41,426; and capital outlay, $14,347.

BUILDING SHOWS DROP DURING MAY

Number of Permits Decline Over 1960

FOUR ARE ISSUED FOR NEW HOMES

Building during May dropped more than 50 percent over the comparable month in 1960, the month-end report issued Wednesday by Building Inspector Lewis J. Kirby.

In addition to a drop from 115 to 83 permits, Kirby also noted a drop in the number of permits for new homes and large building projects.

The total for the two months were:

May, 1961—$228,970.
May, 1960—$475,757.

May, 1960, saw permits issued for the $122,000 addition to St. Peter's Lutheran and the $150,000 J. C. Penney store on High street, Kirby explained, while the single large permit issued during the past month was for the electrical work on the new First Federal Savings and Loan association building at High and Hanover streets. The cost of that was $77,754.

May, 1960, also saw permits issued for six new homes, totaling $101,000, against four homes totaling $78,500 during the past 31 days.

INCLUDED in the four home permits issued last month were two issued Wednesday to Gerald G. Richards, of Sanatoga. He will construct a $26,500 two-story frame and brick home and a $14,500 one-and-a-half story home in his North Washington street development.

Also issued Wednesday, but not included in the report, were two permits for $10,500 Cape Cod homes issued to Russell T. Gresh, 37 South Chestnut street, Boyertown. The homes, of brick construction, will be built by Keystone Builders of Pottstown on North Manatawny street.

Shovel Wielding Assailant Sought By Local Police

Did George Nagengast fall? Or was he attacked?

Pottstown police hope continuing investigation today will clear up conflicting stories taken from Nagengast Wednesday night in Memorial hospital, where he was rushed by Goodwill ambulance after staggering into a West High street used car lot, his face and head covered with blood.

The 44 year old, 918 North Washington street resident is in fair condition at Reading hospital, under the care of a neuro-surgeon. He has a compound fracture of the skull and numerous face and head cuts which required approximately 35 stitches.

Nagengast first told Patrolman William Rowland that he slipped and fell down the west embankment from the Reading Railroad Colebrookdale spur near West High street, striking his head on a concrete abutment.

ROWLAND TOOK the statement and was on his way out of the hospital dispensary when Nagengast called him back and said he must have dozed off while sitting on the bank, and when he awoke, another man attacked him with a flat head shovel, knocking him unconscious.

"I better tell you the truth," Rowland quoted Nagengast as saying.

Nagengast was driven to the Car Carnival lot by his wife at about 4:30 p.m. to dig for worms, and was seen by witnesses mounting the east bank to the tracks, then disappearing over the top.

Police will attempt to locate a man who Nagengast said helped him to the used car lot after the fall—or attack.

Soviet Delegate Declines Nuclear Test Ban Offer

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin turned down an American-British concession on nuclear test ban controls Wednesday without even studying the Western document.

U. S. delegate Arthur H. Dean introduced the compromise proposal calling for fewer inspections on Soviet territory at last Monday's session of the nuclear test ban talks here. Sir Michael Wright endorsed it on behalf of the British government. Wednesday, they offered the proposal in formal treaty language.

The gist of it was that Britain and the United States, which originally called for 20 on-site inspections within the Soviet Union every year, would cut this and agree to a sliding scale of 12 to 20. Exactly how many would depend on how many suspicious earth tremors seismographs detected that might indicate secret underground tests.

After Dean finished, Tsarapkin immediately read a prepared statement in which he criticized the Western proposal in the strongest terms, and left no doubt the Soviet Union did not intend to accept.

Wright said since Tsarapkin had not even studied the Western text his reaction "can hardly be a considered judgment."

He expressed the "intense regret" of the British government and told the Soviet negotiator: 'If your policy is to reject any proposal without time to consider it, then I conclude your government has lost the will to negotiate."

Both Dean and Sir Michael have frequently criticized the Soviet delegate for what they have called his "failure to contribute to genuine negotiation" in the 31-month-old conference which held its 313th session Wednesday.

Modern Manners

By CAROLYN HAGNER SHAW

Author of "Modern Manners — Etiquet for All Occasions"

ATTENTION TO DETAILS ASSURES CALM WEDDING DAY

I have attended three large, formal weddings in the past two weeks. My only reaction has been to wonder why so many things are done the hard way, with resultant confusion to the bridal party itself, and to the guests.

The following are a few warnings to the brides who will walk down the aisle during the month of June. They are small details, but if they are not planned ahead of time, your wedding will not be the perfect thing it should be.

It is very important to make sure that the time element is carefully planned. For example: the sexton of the church should be ready at least an hour and a half before the service is to start.

The florist should have the bridal bouquet, those for her attendants and the boutonnieres for the men, at the church at least and hour early. One of his assistants, or the florist himself, should stand by to make sure everything is complete.

Why is this so important? I well remember one wedding where the florist found, to his horror, just before the bridal party started down the aisle, that he had neglected to make a bouquet for the little flower girl. He did show fortitude in the emergency, however! He rushed around and grabbed a posie here and another there from the bridesmaids' bouquets, snipped a piece of ribbon off one, and made a passable bouquet for the child. But, as a result, everyone started down the aisle thoroughly disturbed by the uproar.

Another pitfall to avoid, is not getting the ushers "to the church on time"! They should all be there one hour before the ceremony is set to begin.

Many of the invited guests will arrive early, to be sure of getting a good seat. It is extremely bad if no one is there to escort them. The best man, who of course is with the bridegroom, should appoint a "head" usher to make sure there is no slip-up here.

Another "little" details that means a lot, is arranging well ahead of time for the arrival of the cars that are to take the bridal party to the church, and from there to the reception. The drivers should be briefed as to the exact time they should be ready and waiting.

To fall in with this, someone (a relative or friend) should be designated to make sure the bridal party is ready to get in the cars when they are supposed to! Not an easy job sometimes, in all the excitement.

Why do I stress these points? To avoid keeping several hundred people waiting in the church, while the bridal party straggles in a half hour behind schedule. Think about this when you plan your wedding!

Question: My husband and I are having a reception to celebrate our 30th wedding anniversary. Can you tell me who should stand first in the receiving line. There will be just the two of us and I don't want to do the wrong thing. It is to be held in our home, and I would like to know if I should wear a hat?

MRS. J.D.C.

Answer: You should stand first to greet your guests, as you are the hostess. A hat is never worn when you entertain in your home.

CRABS AGE, TOO

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — People tend to act the same after they retire as they did during their younger years, says Bernice Scott, a specialist in rural sociology at Cornell university.

"If you're grumpy now, Heaven help your family when you're 75. You can't be an old crab without being a young crab first," she said.

Military Court Sentences Rebel French Leaders

PARIS (AP)—The former commander of Allied forces in Central Europe and a former chief of the French army staff were sentenced Wednesday night to 15-year jail terms for heading the April French generals' insurrection in Algeria against President Charles de Gaulle.

The prosecution asked life imprisonment, actually the equivalent of 20 years. They could have received the death penalty.

Maurice Challe, 55, and Andre Zeller, 63, heard their sentences without flinching. There is no appeal against the verdict of the special nine-man military court set up under De Gaulle's emergency powers.

Only the president can lighten the penalty. There was no indication he would.

Challe and Zeller represented half of the four-man military junta which seized power for four days in Algiers last month. The other members, former Gens. Raoul Salan and Edmond Jouhaud, have not surrendered. They are believed to be hiding somewhere in Algeria, possibly preparing further resistance.

The trial, which involved the deeply split French army in another of its periodic crises of conscience, lasted only three days.

As the long procession of witnesses for prosecution and defense succeeded each other at the stand, the cleavage within the higher ranks of army, navy and air force officers was dramatically shown.

Loyalist officers turned their backs to their old comrades in arms and refused to shake hands. Others, even while testifying for the prosecution, spoke with emotion in favor of the basically patriotic motives of the men they were required to denounce.

Even Antonin Besson, public prosecutor, admitted he found it impossible to ask the death penalty which the law allowed. He asked the court to show indulgence by imposing a life sentence.

Challe, he pointed out, ended the insurrection by his surrender, although Salan wanted to call on the civilian population in Algeria to continue the fight. He never ordered the use of force, Besson said, and tried to avoid bloodshed.

DRIVER HURT

Charles H. Leonard, of Apple, Pa., fell asleep while driving north on Route 662 above Douglassville at 10:30 p. m. Wednesday; his car skidded 300 feet, crossed the road and struck a tree. The auto was demolished.

Leonard was taken to Memorial hospital in a Birdsboro ambulance, where he was treated for head cuts and released. Amity township Police Chief Howard Hemmig and Patrolman Maurice Eshbach investigated.

Khrushchev Vows To Ease Tension

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev declared Wednesday night he will strive personally for a relaxation of world tensions when he meets here with President Kennedy.

This was reported by Prague radio in describing Khrushchev's arrival in Bratislava, Czech city only 30 miles from Vienna.

He was met at the station by Antonin Novotny, Czech president and Communist party chief, and Premier Vilem Siroky.

Khrushchev was greeted by large crowds. He told them: "I am on my way to Vienna to meet with President Kennedy. I do not want to make a prior judgment on the meeting but I will strive for a relaxation of world tensions and to secure peace.

"Our delegation will intercede for not only what the people of the Socialist countries want, but what the people of the entire world want, namely peace."

Optimists Endorse Abolition Movie

Members of the Pottstown and Pottsgrove Optimists club viewed with approval the opinion-arousing film, "Operation Abolition" at their regular meeting Wednesday night in the Cloverleaf restaurant.

William Foster, member of the American Legion, showed the film, which was produced by the House UnAmerican Activities committee and depicted riots in San Francisco at House UnAmerican Activities hearings.

Several members suggested the movie be shown to children in school to instill the importance of democracy in their minds.

Forty-one Nations Ask Angola Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Forty-one Asian-African nations and Yugoslavia Wednesday asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council on Angola. They charged that thousands have been killed in the Portuguese territory in Africa and "massacres are continuing."

The charges were made in a letter sent to Chilean Ambassador T. F. Tsiang, who becomes council president Thursday.

Indications were that Tsiang would call the council into session next Monday or Tuesday.

Two Injured As Cars Crash

Two persons were injured Wednesday morning in a two car collision at High and York streets, apparently caused by a third, "helpful" motorist.

Robert F. Coine, 18, of Phoenixville, a pupil at St. Pius X High school, was driving out of the Dempsey Diner parking lot onto High street when a motorist eastbound in the curb lane, waiting to enter the lot, waved Coine ahead.

As Coine reached the street, his car and an eastbound car driven in the second lane by Aaron G. Wagner Jr., Shillington, collided.

Both were taken to Memorial hospital, where Wagner was treated for cuts of the right knee and cuts and bruises of the right hand and knuckles. Coine was admitted, then released Wednesday night.

The complete front end of each car was extensively damaged. Sgt. Irvin Frederick and Patrolman John Moore investigated.

LOST AND FOUND

AMELIA, Va. (AP)—A month after Ronnie and Janet Miller were married in a double ring ceremony Ronnie lost his hing in a hay manger. A search was futile. A year and a half later one of Ronnie's cows became ill and was brought to Richmond for inspection. The cow died but X-rays revealed the ring in the cow's stomach. Ronnie is wearing it again.

Anti-Cancer Vaccine Lead is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration said today that successful production synthetically of a chemical compound at its Dallas hospital may help solve major mysteries about cancer, and possibly lead the way to anti-cancer vaccines.

The compound is Glyco-Lipid, or Cytolipin H. The VA said it appears to be identical to a naturally occurring chemical detected in high concentration in most human cancer cells.

Dr. Alfred C. Schram, VA biochemist produced the synthetic.

"Being able to produce this compound in the laboratory is important because it offers a new approach to learning what makes a cancer cell a cancer cell and perhaps to help explain why cancers kill people," he said.

"Furthermore, Cytolipin H has some association with the production of antibodies, cancer-fighting substances in the blood, and the synthetic undoubtedly will speed investigation of natural immunology against cancer, particularly development of possible vaccines."

VA said that Dr. Schram first reported his success to a meeting of the American Society for Cancer Research at Atlantic City, N.J., and since has refined and improved the manufacturing process.

The synthetic has the same spectrum and molecular weight as the naturally occurring chemical found in most human cancer cells, VA said. However, further data is required to determine whether the synthetic is an isomer of Cytolipin H—that is, almost identical except for some rearrangement of the atomic pattern.

In either event, the VA said, the synthetic will give cancer researchers a new and vital tool in their exploration of cancer mysteries.

South Viet Nam Opposition Grows

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Political groups opposing President Ngo Dinh Diem are beginning to grow in South Viet Nam.

Just how significant they will be allowed to become is uncertain. Some observers suspect at least one new movement is being quietly encouraged by the government.

It is no secret the United States and some other Western nations have been urging Diem to liberalize his tightly run regime to help win more popular support in the critical fight against communism. U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson made this point on his recent visit here.

But it is also no secret that Diem feels there is danger in allowing democratic freedom on the Western pattern in a nation involved in a vicious guerrilla war and struggling to rise from underdevelopment.

Canada's Geology Will Be Studied

OTTAWA (AP)—By pack mule, helicopter, canoe and on foot, some 400 scientists and others in 102 parties will set out in all 10 provinces this summer to study Canada's geology. Last year 87 parties took part in the project.

Latest in Science — Stretch Socks May Be Harmful For Children

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tips on pets, tender toes, a side effect of beer, and a look at the possibility of human seasons are subjects with a focus on health:

BEWARE OF DOG

In just one year some 600,000 Americans were bitten by dogs—and man's canine friend can be a problem in the warmer months ahead when people take to the outdoors.

Dogs can make wonderful companions if they are handled right, says Dr. Herman E. Hilliboe, New York health commissioner. He offers these tips:

Don't give a dog to a child under the age of 6. This can prevent a fifth of all dog bites.

Don't wake a dog suddenly. Teach children to care for them, not abuse or tease them.

Don't intervene in dog fights. Don't startle an eating dog. Don't take his food away from him. Don't run with a dog if it excites him, and don't ride a bicycle near an excited dog.

Have your pet vaccinated for rabies.

PEDIGREE FOR HEALTH

Check the health of previous owners when you choose a pet, Scottish doctors suggest.

Frequently owners may infect their pets with a disease like tuberculosis, and pets can carry the disease into your home. Of 13 dogs and nine cats who had contact with TB cases, eight dogs and three cats had positive reactions to TB tests.

FOR TENDER TOES

Stretch socks may be harmful for children, a podiatrist says. In many youngsters between the ages of 2 and 12, ingrown toenails are caused by tight socks and in some the beginning of hammer toes have been seen. He advises against stretch socks before the age of 15.

SIDE EFFECT OF BEER

Beer may affect the clotting of blood in some persons. Sixteen men and women were given a pint of beer to drink and in two hours, 12 showed a definite delay in clotting time. Whisky had no significant effect, but cider and white wine did. Blood returned to normal four hours after drinking.

HUMAN SEASONS?

Some bacterial diseases seem to have seasons, causing outbreaks of respiratory illness at certain times of the year. But a Boston University doctor wonders if the seasons are not human.

The germs are found in humans all year long, explains Dr. Henry Stimson Harvey. Yet the outbreaks of disease are seasonal, indicating there may be a seasonal change in people that makes them susceptible to influenza, streptococcus and pneumococcus diseases.

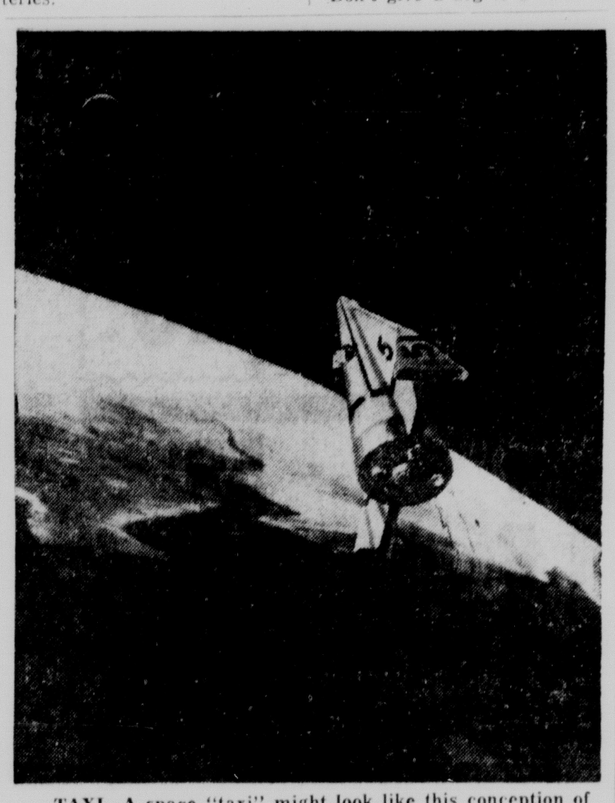
TO TRANSPLANT SKIN

The outer layer of skin apparently needs the layers of cells below it to keep its identity and sometimes its vitality.

Transplants of skin without the lower cell layers, and skin with the lower or connective tissues were made on 11 patients by National Cancer Institute scientists.

The transplants minus the lower cells either died or began to resemble the skin structure at the new site. Only when the connective tissue was included in the transplant did the skin survive and keep its original identity.



TAXI—A space "taxi" might look like this conception of such a craft coming in for a landing on the Earth after a relatively short, high-velocity flight from a manned station beyond the Earth.

Commuting in Space

When space stations are sent aloft they are not likely to return to the Earth, except by accident. Situated hundreds of thousands of miles apart in space between the Earth and the planets, they will serve as transfer points for passengers, refueling stops and as scientific laboratories.

Since they will be manned by humans, some relief of manpower aboard these stations will be necessary, as well as the reception of supplies.

Some type of high-speed, short-range spacecraft will be needed to serve as a sort of space "taxi" between the stations themselves and between the nearest outpost and the Earth.

Such a ship might be powered by liquid oxygen or some other high-thrust fuel because the craft must be able to not only accelerate rapidly between stations, but it almost must be able to blast off from the Earth. Therefore ion or pinch plasma propulsion probably would not produce the needed power.

There would be very little luxury aboard a ship of this type. In effect, it might be compared to a bus or trolley car—used only for the purpose of transporting a maximum number of passengers in the shortest possible time.

Blue Law Enforcement To Be Delayed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—City Solicitor David Berger said Wednesday there will be no enforcement of Pennsylvania's Sunday blue laws for at least 25 days and possibly longer.

Berger, after conferring with police officials, said he had asked Police Commissioner Albert Brown to delay enforcement until "all pending legal matters are cleared up."

The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday upheld legality of the State's ban on certain types of Sunday business. It said the laws do not violate the federal constitution, and are not religious in intent.

Berger said parties to the suit have 25 days to file petitions for rehearing or reargument.

Many stores remain open for business in Philadelphia.

Legion Team Faces 16-Game Playing Schedule

EAST GREENVILLE—Victor Stahl, Phone OR 9-7264. Miller's News Agency, Del., Phone OR 9-7467.

A 16-game schedule in Bux-Mont Junior American Legion league competition, will be faced by the Perkiomen post 184 entry, during the coming season. Activity is slated to get underway when the Quakertown Juniors will invade the Seminary avenue grounds, Pennsburg.

With coach John Brey unable the reigns of the team on the field due to a night employment commitment, manager Wahl has enlisted Irvin Raymond for coaching service. The latter played considerable sandlot baseball in yesteryears and should prove an able aid to Wahl.

New uniforms, currently on order with the Reeser Sporting Goods firm, will be on hand for the opening game. A majority of the Upper Perkiomen High School squad will be available for duty although any boy in the general Upper Perkiomen area that will not reach his 19th birthday this year, is eligible to try out for a team position.

The two Perkiomen post American Legion, entries in the Perkiomen Valley Connie Mack league, will each play a ten game schedule with the opening game slated Wednesday when the Phillies will entertain the Yankees on the Seminary Avenue, Pennsburg, grounds, at 6:15 p.m. Lamar Sell will handle the Phillies while Francis Roncace will coach the Yankees. The latter team will use the Green Lane school grounds as a home base of operations.

with a large number of new mains needed on streets that are on the State Highway department improvement list — Hanover, Manatawny and State streets and Farmington avenue. The streets will all require utility service fixtures before the tentative start of State repairs in the Spring of 1962.

HE ALSO pointed out that a four-inch main running along Route 100 from the South Hanover street bridge to Route 183 will need to be enlarged to an eight-inch pipe before work starts later this year or early next year on another State Highway department project.

The committee also withheld awards of contracts on a three-quarter ton pickup truck and a specially equipped one-ton utility truck pending a legal opinion from the borough solicitor on whether rental charges can be subtracted from a low bid.

The borough is currently renting a three-quarter ton truck from the Berman Sales company, with the rental charges expected to run between $300 and $500 before a new truck is delivered. If the company is allowed to subtract the amount from its bid on the larger truck, it would have the low bid on both trucks.

The bidders and bids were: Berman Sales company — three-quarter ton, less trade-in, $1595, and one-ton, $4579; Howard Cates Ford, three-quarter ton, less trade-in, $1695, and one-ton, $4425; Keiser Chevrolet, three-quarter ton, less trade-in, $1780, and one-ton, $4740.

The committee also approved the extension of a water line from the center of the street to the curb so that the American Business club could extend a one-inch line to Enterprise baseball field at Fifth and Manatawny streets. The water will be used for watering the field as well as drinking.

SPARKS FLY AT MEETING OF AUTHORITY

cavation bidders indicated the specifications were lacking in regards to supplemental payment for rock encountered in excavating.

STANDARD procedure is to make test bores of the site, indicating the type of soil or rock to be found at various levels of digging. The test bores then become a part of the contract, indicating generally to the excavator what he is likely to encounter on the way down and enabling him to bid on the job.

If he then encounters rock, where it is not shown on the test bores, it may be the excavator's job to remove the rock at no extra charge. Or he may be paid extra if the contract so states.

The specifications as they now stand, however, seem to guarantee the excavator extra payment for rock, whether it is shown on the test bores or not, as Pearlstine pointed out.

"The contract says 'supplemental payment for rock where encountered'," Pearlstine read. "That means even if the test bores show it's there before hand. If that's so—why are we paying for the test bores? They don't mean anything!"

"What would you recommend?" Hartman asked.

"Oh no you don't, Mr. Hartman," Pearlstine replied. "Don't play footsie with me. I'm a lawyer—you're an architect. You're getting paid 6 percent for this job—not me?"

HARTMAN insisted the "unit price"—a set figure per cubic yard—was inflexible no matter what the excavator found on the way down. "The test bores become a part of the contract," he insisted.

But by rereading the specifications, Pearlstine was able to prove supplemental prices would be included for all rock found, and added that excavators demanded the unit price apply only when the terrain did not change from the findings of the test bores.

Hartman was ordered to change the specifications to guarantee an excavator extra payment only if the terrain differed from the findings of the test bores.

A clause also was added which stated the architect would make final decision on what was and what was not rock.

"We've had trouble with this before," said one authority member. "It got to the point excavators were calling everything rock—and we're closer to the real hard stuff this time."

IN OTHER findings, the authority learned the much-delayed specifications would not be ready to go out for bids until some arrangement was made for sewage. The authority hopes to tie up with the Pottstown sewage system.

Sanitation engineer David Evans will take up the problem with health officials and Borough Manager Robert H. McKinney Jr.

If this fails, plans for a private sewage plant may then be considered.

The authority has yet to get full approval from the department of health in Norristown and a blanket approval from the department of public instruction in Harrisburg. One is contingent upon the other.

ONE FINAL flash between Pearlstine and Hartman occurred when Pearlstine said.

"In your first report, you said the location was an excellent site because of the potential borough sewage tie-in. What now?" he asked Hartman.

"I thought I could save you money," Hartman replied.

bids by the borough with the township to be billed for their half at a later date. The low bidder on the street excavation and blacktopping was John Mays, of Perkasie, with $16,212.

The storm sewer work, bid on a per unit cost, also was awarded to Mayes. It is expected to cost $16,800.

The curbing for the five Upper Pottsgrove property owners will be installed by the township and while the Pottstown property owners can have it done by their own contractors, the usual practice is to allow the borough contractor to do it at the same time the streets are being installed. The property owners are then billed.

The township ordinance, expected to be passed at the June 5 meeting, provides penalties and interests if the bill isn't paid within 30 days after completion of the construction. A similar system of fines—5 percent—and penalties—6 percent from time of completion—are provided by the borough.

Unpaid bills will be collected by liening the properties.

Fagleysville Family Purchases Farm Once Owned by Penn Son

A property once owned by a son of William Penn was auctioned to a Fagleysville family Wednesday for $27,250.

The selling price also included a stone house and barn built on the property in 1863.

The former owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ludwig, Swamp Creek road, Fruitville, sold the property to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kingsepp and their son William, who own the Kath-O-Will camp adjoining the property at Faust and Grebe roads. The property lies in New Hanover and Limerick townships.

Covering approximately 60 acres, the property was once part of a 700 acre tract of land owned by Richard Penn. All but eight acres of the property is farm land, the remaining area being wooded.

MRS. LUDWIG'S grandfather, Matthew Brooke, purchased the land in 1863 from a Rev. Kepler, and built the house and barn at that time. Previous to that, the land had been in the Kepler family since it was purchased from Richard Penn.

Ludwig farmed the land until recently, when ill health forced him to move from the large house to his present address. After he moved, he farmed only eight acres of the land.

Auctioned for the first time, the sale of the property was handled by the Alfred Traiman Auction company, Philadelphia.

8 Year Old Girl Is Given Car

TWICE PLOWED

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Nine-year-old Steven Laton of Des Moines had heard his father say several times that it was time to plant the family garden. But the boy wasn't home when the planting was done.

The next day, Steve, wanting to be helpful, got up early and plowed the entire garden. The family now calls it the "tossed salad garden."

Dominicans Invade New York Consulate

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 50 persons invaded the Dominican Republic's Rockefeller Center consulate Wednesday in the wake of reports of Rafael Trujillo's assassination, smashed furniture and menaced the consul-general.

The intruders shouted that they were taking control of the third-floor office overlooking Avenue of the Americas. They contended there was no government in the Dominican Republic with the death of Trujillo.

A single detective and one patrolman kept the angry mob at bay until a riot call brought police reinforcements.

The intruders demanded to see Consul-General Luis Mercado, and he stepped into the foyer of his office to talk to them.

Mercado said he had no confirmation of Trujillo's death.

"Liar!" the crowd began shouting at Mercado.

The consul-general retreated to his office as the detective and patrolman blocked the intruders.

Chairs were knocked over, a telephone switchboard tipped over, a photograph of Trujillo smashed, a water cooler broken and books and papers strewn about.

In the midst of the riot, police reinforcements arrived and sealed off the third floor of the building between 50th and 51st streets. On the avenue below, an estimated 200 Dominicans tried vainly to breach police lines and get upstairs. More than 2,000 passersby gathered to watch.

"These people came here to take over," Mercado complained. "There is an official government —a republic—in the Dominican Republic."

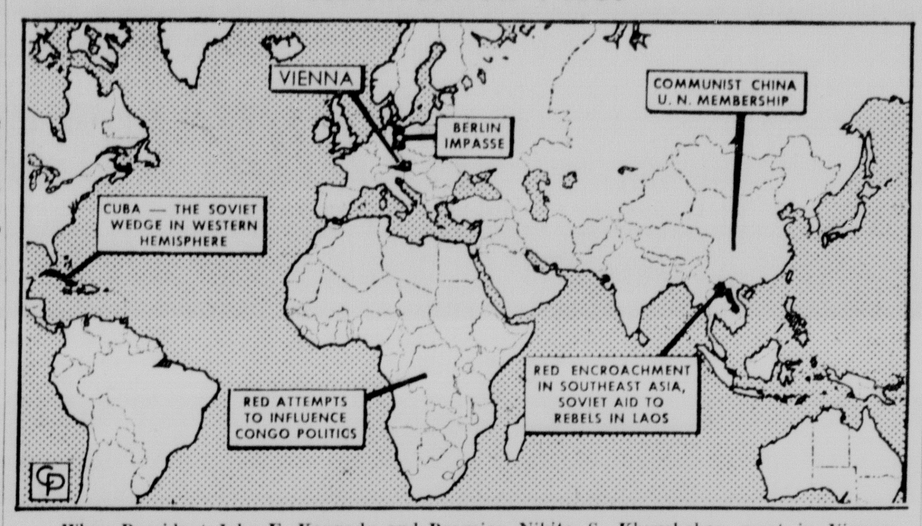
Trujillo's Sons Fly On Chartered Plane

PARIS (AP)—Seven Dominican leaders, including the sons of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo—Rhadames and Rafael Jr., — flew Wednesday to Port au Prince, Haiti, en route to the Dominican Republic after receiving reports of the dictator's assassination.

They flew from Orly Field aboard an Air France Boeing, specially chartered for $28,000.

Among those aboard was playboy diplomat Porfirio Rubirosa, former son-in-law of Trujillo.

Conversation Piece



When President John F. Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev meet in Vienna, they will not lack for areas of discussion. This map indicates several items of importance for East and West. Kennedy met Khrushchev once in Washington.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Kennedy Promises U.S. Support for Europeans

PARIS (AP) — President Kennedy asserted Wednesday night the United States will maintain forces in Europe "as long as they are required, ready to meet any threat with whatever response is needed."

The President made the statement in the prepared text of a banquet speech against a background of agreement with President Charles de Gaulle on an apparent granite-tough policy toward Soviet threats to provoke a new Berlin crisis.

The President, however, deleted these and other material statements relating to the firm policy from the speech he delivered at the banquet in the form of a toast to his host, President de Gaulle.

Andrew Hatcher, a White House press secretary, offered this explanation: "There is no significance to the omission of any portion of the text of the President's original toast. The statements were meant to explain the President's position."

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told a reporter the President evidently considered the social atmosphere of the dinner at the Elysee Palace an inappropriate setting for a statement of policy. But he added the remarks stand as a statement of policy.

Kennedy meets Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna over the weekend against the background of the statement. He thus posed the prospect that U.S. troops will resist any Communist attempt to envelop West Berlin, which is isolated 100 miles inside Communist East Germany.

A French spokesman said De Gaulle and Kennedy, in their first meeting during the day, reached a complete identity of views on Berlin, and a U.S. spokesman said there was general agreement on the issue. This indicated Kennedy quickly assured De Gaulle that Washington sees eye to eye with him on Berlin.

De Gaulle is known to advocate the toughest of stands — even to the risk of war — against Soviet pressure to drive the Western powers out of Berlin.

"Both of our nations know," Kennedy said as he rose at the dinner to toast De Gaulle, "that your fate is our fate — that your safety is our safety — and that American forces will remain in Europe as long as they are required, ready to meet any threat with whatever response is needed.

"And both of us also know that neither ally would ever ignore the alliance to risk war or to accept retreat or to act out of narrow isolation."

In view of Kennedy's forthcoming meeting with Khrushchev, the words had the ring of a warning to the Communist bloc. And the speed with which the U.S. and French presidents apparently agreed on the top issue before them also had overtones of warning.

The agreement, a U.S. spokesman said, came in the first 35 minutes of private conversation between the two Western leaders. They met for another hour and 50 minutes later in the day and will have three hours of talks, in two sessions, Thursday.

On Fateful Journey

"Good Bye, Thank You" . . . President Kennedy waves to well-wishers gathered at Barnstable Municipal airport as he boards his plane for flight to New York, and then on to Paris where he and his wife, Jacqueline were entertained by President de Gaulle at a state luncheon.

Bus Company Official Cites Kennedy Demand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bus company official testified Wednesday that Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy urged him vigorously to get a Negro to drive a "Freedom Riders" bus when white drivers refused to move it.

When he replied that no Negro drivers were available, the witness said Kennedy told him, "Well, hell, you can look for one, can't you."

The statement came in U.S. District Court after Birmingham police were cleared of blame for race rioting there, but a similar Justice Department complaint against Montgomery police was left pending.

Called as a defense witness, Greyhound Supt. George E. Cruitt of Birmingham said Kennedy telephoned him after regular drivers refused to take the bus from Birmingham to Montgomery. Several scheduled trips were canceled before a Greyhound driver finally made the run May 20.

A screaming white mob attacked the Freedom Riders when the bus got here, and the Justice Department contends police "deliberately failed" to provide protection.

With dismissal of the complaint against Birmingham police and one of three Ku Klux Klan factions, who had been put under a temporary no-violence injunction after the rioting here, U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. still is considering possible action against Montgomery police and two other Klan organizations.

The government seeks to compel police to protect Freedom Riders in the future, and to continue the injunction against the Klans.

Assassins Kill Dictator Of Dominican Republic

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Assassins have shot down and killed Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, the Dominican dictator.

The death of the 69-year-old strongman—dictator for 31 years and a storm center in inter-American relations — was announced late Wednesday in Ciudad Trujillo, his capital.

The communique gave no details except to say Trujillo fell victim to an assassination during Tuesday night.

Other information reaching San Juan from responsible sources gave this version:

Seven persons in an automobile attacked Trujillo at 10 p.m. Tuesday as he was driving to Ciudad Trujillo from his home in San Cristobal.

Trujillo was shot.

Two of his attackers were caught or killed. The other five are presumed to have got away.

As an aftermath to the assassination police went at 4:30 a.m. to the home of Roman Catholic Bishop Thomas F. Reilly, who has been under house arrest growing out of a dispute between Trujillo and the Church.

Bishop Reilly was taken away but later returned to his home—with apologies.

The death of Trujillo was announced officially at 4:45 p.m. EST—roughly 19 hours after his death occurred. Presumably Trujillo's aides used this time to tie down military control of the country.

Joaquin Balaguer, the figurehead president under Trujillo's rule, signed the communique broadcast over Dominican radio stations and later telegraphed abroad.

Aside from the communique, correspondents in Ciudad Trujillo said they could not send out any news.

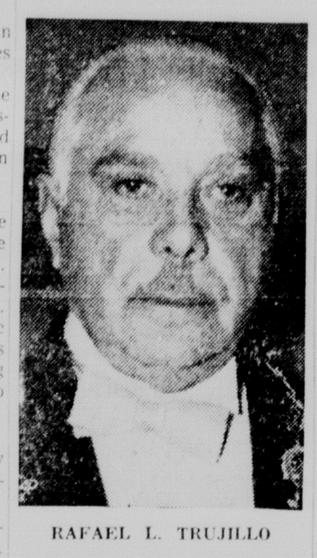
The communique said the country was quiet and no disorders had occurred. It proclaimed nine days of mourning.

"All classes of Dominicans, and particularly the poorer classes, have the inescapable civic duty to remain more united than ever," the communique said.

"The disappearance of such a great man is an irreparable loss to the republic."



RAFAEL L. TRUJILLO

Balaguer asked the people to help "maintain the continuity" of what he called the Trujillo legacy.

The Trujillo regime's control of news organs as well as most other enterprises in the Dominican Republic is so strict that even rumors of the assassination did not reach other countries until 12 hours or so after it occurred.

First an Associated Press dispatch from Port au Prince, Haiti, told of the mysterious arrival of a plane from Ciudad Trujillo which carried no Dominican passengers, though about 20 had been booked. One of the persons aboard brought the first rumors of Trujillo's death.

Then the State Department in Washington said it had received unconfirmed reports of the assassination.

In Paris, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said he understood Trujillo was dead.

President Kennedy instructed Secretary of State Dean Rusk to remain in Washington to keep abreast of developments, rather than fly overnight to Paris and on to Vienna for the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting.

These various reports were spread for about five hours before the official announcement came over the Dominican radio late in the day. At that hour direct telegraphic and telephonic communication with Ciudad Trujillo was cut off, as it had been most of the day.

Haiti, which is beside the Dominican Republic on the Island of Hispaniola across a strait from Cuba, in the Caribbean, put its army on full alert. The frontier was closed, and militia units called up at Port au Prince.

The slaying raised speculation in Latin America as to what part if any followers of Cuba's Fidel Castro might have had in the developments. For a time early in his career as Cuban chief, Castro encouraged efforts to invade the Dominican Republic. But recently there were signs that Trujillo and Castro were seeing more eye to eye—in mutual distrust of Washington.

The United States has broken diplomatic relations with both Cuba and the Dominican Republic.

The Dominican break came on the recommendation of the Organization of American States—largely at U. S. urging—to apply penalties against the Trujillo regime because of its thwarting of civil liberties.

The United States in 1916 sent Marines into the Dominican Republic, then known as Santo Domingo, and kept them there eight years.

Trujillo, always dapper and self assured, ruled his nation with an iron hand and often overtones of tyranny. Even his critics, however, granted that he brought stable government into a country that had seen frequent revolutions, improved the living conditions of many of the people and raised its literacy.

He was for many years considered one of the United States' strongest allies in its fight against communism.

But the self-proclaimed "benefactor of the fatherland" had in recent years, even while receiving U. S. aid, expressed distrust of the way Washington was treating him. He said he longed for the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Venezuela Crushes Revolt Attempt

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The government of President Romulo Betancourt has uncovered and crushed a plot to overthrow the regime, it was announced Wednesday.

The announcement was made jointly by the undersecretary of the interior and the army chief in Caracas.

The undersecretary, Carlos Andres Perez, said that the action in crushing the incipient revolt "shows the solid position of the government."

The military commander in Caracas, Gen. Antonio Briceno Linares, said that 21 persons were arrested at dawn.

WATER TRAP

RANDLETT, Okla. (AP) — Farmer C. B. Ressell got tired of thieves stealing his gasoline. He watered it and the sheriff confiscated a stalled car near the Ressell farm. The car owner admitted his guilt.

Mission Study Will Direct Women To Closer Look at Value of Church

The six circles of the United Lutheran Churchwomen of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, Boyertown, will meet for a covered dish dinner on Monday at 6:15 p. m., in the social room of the church.

At 7:30 p. m., in the chapel, the home mission study for 1961 "Safe in Bondage," by Robert W. Spike, will be presented to this general meeting by Mrs. Charles Albright, Robert Chittick and Richard Weller. The co-ordinator for the study is Mrs. Fred S. Blank.

The study briefly reviews past home mission enterprises, points the way to new horizons, and presents a picture of the world of our mid-twentieth century. The relationship of the church to these projects, what it has done, what it has failed to do, and what it can do, is the object of the study.

There will be an open discussion at the close of the meeting concerning local responsibilities in the home mission field. The United Lutheran Churchmen will participate in the discussion, to which the public is invited.

Boeing Worker Will Give Cadets First Hand Look Into Rocketry

Space age education on rockets and missiles will continue this week for members of the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz squadron 807, CAP, Boyertown, under the direction of Lt. Harry P. Mutter, who will travel from Philadelphia to give the course to the CAP cadets and seniors.

The book, "The Dawning Space Age", will be used as a basis of instruction, published by National Headquarters, CAP. Lt. Mutter is employed by Boeing Aircraft corporation, Vertol division, and spent several years working on the Minuteman missile.

Participation in two parades highlighted the recent activities of the squadron. Memorial Day was celebrated by marching in the annual Boyertown parade and planes owned by pilots of the unit flew over Fairview cemetery as the special services drew to a close, dropping flowers over the graves. The flowers were donated by Boyertown florists through the cooperation of the local post of the VFW.

In addition to the three planes manned by Captain William J. Hare, Capt. Daniel D. Clouser, SM Robert Kurtz and William Miklich, the squadron's pickup truck bearing a basket of flowers and the unit's color guard escort took part in the program. Members of the color guard included 1/Sgt James S. Youse, Daniel A. DeWalt, Clifford D. Reinert, C3/c Roy A. Gebhard, Terry L. Starr, C3/c Ronald M. Stauffer and Donald DeWalt. Flight guidons and Christian church guidons were borne by Nancy K. Magners and Becky Ann Magners. Capt. Elizabeth Magners drove the flower truck. Ground-to-air signals for the airplanes were in charge of Captain. Ard S. Barr, unit commander, assisted by Robert Barr.

ARMED FORCES week was celebrated by the unit with an appearance in the Armed Forces Day parade in Allentown. A complete section of the huge parade was made up of CAP personnel from Allentown, Bethlehem and Boyertown, in addition to the medical squadron from Allentown composed of doctors and nurses and a detachment of cadets from Easton.

Celebrations of the week honoring the armed services included a poster display authorized by Boyertown borough manager Rowland A. Read, at town hall, and orientation classes in the squadron's weekly meeting presented by information officer Capt. Elizabeth Magners. Guest speaker at the meeting was Lawrence H. Beury. Beury was a former CAP cadet, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Beury, Pottstown RD 3.

The first outdoor rifle club practice of the season was conducted at the Boyertown Rod and Gun club under the supervision of Capt. Arthur G. Magners, club president. The NRA affiliate unit is open to interested young men and women from 14 years of age. Persons desiring more information on the free of charge shooting are urged to contact the squadron.

Inside You And Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

Your Face and Lightning Pains

"DO YOU want to kill me?" screamed Susie. "One touch, and those ice tongs will be pulling my face off again!"

The doctor had suggested examining her upper lip.

Susie's reaction was a dead giveaway. She had "tic douloureux" — fleeting attacks of shooting pains along the side of the face.

Dr. Fern

As you grow older, you may run into tic douloureux. Senior citizens seem more vulnerable.

At first, months may separate each lightning-like spell. But gradually the two-minute attacks strike daily — or several times a day.

Lips and nose become triggers where the lightest touch explodes into ice-tong agony. That's why Susie wore a wooden face and walked very, very softly.

Spoke Carefully

Like a cigar-smoking politician, she talked out of the other side of her mouth. Whenever balmy breezes tickled her lips, lightning pains pulled at her face. No wonder she didn't wash that lip.

Dainty washcloths and masculine razors mean sudden torture. Around lips and nose, muscles quiver and draw up into spasm during the attack.

No one knows the cause. But like every other "neuralgia", tic douloureux can be relieved in many ways. A few whiffs of trichlorethylene may numb the troubled nerves.

Blood vessel relaxers allow new nourishment to reach the nerve to erase tic pain. Vitamin B injections may relieve the trouble.

Relief From Dilantin

Because lightning bursts of pain resemble epilepsy's sudden burst of brain cell activity, doctors tried an epilepsy medicine called "Dilantin". After years of shooting agony, many incurables have found relief in a handful of Dilantin capsules.

If medicines fail, alcohol injections can numb the afflicted nerve, or the brain surgeon can operate to disconnect nerve fibers flowing from the face to the brain.

Before any treatment, however, you'll need a thorough medical—and dental—checkup.

Susie's now cured. Those ice tongs melted the day her dentist filled that gaping cavity in her upper molar!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of The Mercury.

Rites Draw Worshipers From 50 Mile Radius

Commemorating on Memorial Day the Elim Tabernacle, located on the Union Gospel Church campground, Boyertown RD 2, observed the day by participating and fellowshiping with a circle of friends coming from a radius of over 50 miles.

The first service, conducted at 2 p. m., included talks by several ministers, special music, a girls duet, soloists and combined congregational singing. The service was concluded with a message, "The Whole Armour of God," by the Rev. Dr. David Johns, pastor of the camp.

During the afternoon and early evening, families and friends gathered for dinner after which a second service was conducted at 7 o'clock which included reports and services rendered by all the Tabernacle and camp co-workers. A concluding message "Practical Christianity" was given by the Rev. Robert Witchey, assistant pastor of the camp.

30,000 Miles Per Hour Speed Is Achieved In Laboratory Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government space scientists have simulated in a laboratory a free flight speed of just under 30,000 miles an hour.

This is more than the speed that would be encountered by a spaceship returning from the moon and re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

The achievement was disclosed by Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, before a House Appropriations subcommittee. The testimony, given May 15, was made public Wednesday.

Dryden said the experiment was conducted at Ames Research Center, Moffet Field, Calif., about two weeks before he testified in support of a $4.8-million item in the budget for construction of a bigger and better hypervelocity free flight facility.

He said the proposed facility would help solve the re-entry problems of a returning moon vehicle. It also could use gases like the atmospheres of Mars or Venus to simulate landings on those planets.

The work at Ames was on a small prototype, to prove the bigger one was feasible.

Dryden said the tremendous speed was achieved by firing an object from a special gas gun at a speed of about 25,000 feet a second. The object was fired into a gas moving in the opposite direction in a shock tunnel at a speed of about 15,000 feet per second. Added together, the two speeds simulated a free flight for the object of 40,000 feet per second.

* * *

The record figure Dryden mentioned as being achieved at Ames recently was 42,000 feet per second, using this technique. That translated into just under 30,000 m.p.h.

The re-entry speed of a vehicle returning from the moon is calculated at 36,000 feet per second.

The new facility would be able to produce speeds of up to 50,000 feet a second.

RISING PRICES

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The Colorado Land Board auctioned 20 acres of mountain land west of Boulder, announcing the minimum bid would be $150 per acre. By the time bidding had ended, the price reached $1125 per acre.

Kiwanis Club Honors Ludwick

John G. Ludwick Sr., a founder of Ludwick Motors, who died Saturday, was honored Wednesday night at a meeting of the Pottstown Kiwanis club in the Elks home. Mr. Ludwick was a member of the Kiwanis club.

The Rev. L. Samuel Krouse, associate pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church, read a prayer in memory of Mr. Ludwick.

Guest speaker of the evening was Ihor A. Shust, representative of the foreign department of the Philadelphia National bank. He spoke on economic and political conditions in Latin America. At the time he spoke, Shust was not aware of the assassination of Trujillo and did not refer to him.

He said agents of Fidel Castro were working to Castro's benefit in Venezuela, while Costa Rica and Uruguay were still democracies.

Albert Leblang, president of the Kiwanis club, was in charge. Fifty-five members attended.

Cafe Curtains, Cornices Dress Large Windows

Large windows in older homes can be dressed to perfection with cafe curtains and matching cornices. Oversized drapery rods of painted wood or tubing will solve the hardware problem. If old radiators still remain, you can hide them under a perforated metal grille top-surfaced with colorful, scratchproof ceramic tile. Tile is also recommended for a permanent, waterproof surface for window sills.

Install Fireplace In Summer Cottage

Your Summer cottage needn't be a "short-season" affair. Use it from very early Spring on by installing one of the many new prefabricated fireplaces and chimneys now on the market. Before installing, however, be sure to inquire about local building codes. Some codes will require fireproof materials, such as ceramic tile, for floors and walls near fireplaces.

Rugs and Fabrics Complement Styles In Colonial Decor

Within the range of Early American furniture adaptations, the modern homemaker will find many pieces especially scaled for smaller rooms. No bit of nostalgic flavor has been lost. The charm, warm color and relaxed way of living is just as apparent. Smaller units such as chests, buffets, with or without smaller rooms will take all the necessary furnishings.

Happily for the young family wanting their home different, practical and above all attractive are the many Early American styled floor coverings and fabrics. Big oval braided rugs are colorful and easily cleaned. Decorators have been advocating area rugs on bare floors for some time. This is a colonial idea, updated.

Scout Roundup

TROOP 70

Members of Girl Scout troop 70 enjoyed a treat at their meeting in Transfiguration Lutheran church. As part of their badge requirements, nearly every girl brought food which she had prepared.

The girls went to their patrol rooms and enjoyed helpings of several different salads, cakes and candy. The Hy-Fis patrol brought potatoes which they baked in the church kitchen.

Emma Jean Schaeffer, a member of Senior Troop 63 taught songs and games to one group in the gymnasium.

Another group worked on the health aid badge, practicing games, stories and songs which could be used in entertaining small children. As their subject, they used four-year-old Donald Lichtenwalner, who attended as a guest. Donald was well entertained.

Georgia Shanley and Joan Lichtenwalner were welcomed into Troop 70 as transfers from other Scout troops.

It was decided that beginning with the next meeting on June 6, all Summer sessions will be held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Charles Lichtenwalner Jr., Rahns Hill.

All girls needing transportation were advised to meet at the church at the usual meeting time.

A Court of Awards and Investiture will be held as an outdoor ceremony in June.

For Colonial Decor Use Pine, Maple Furniture

Early American rooms call for furnishings of pine or maple. Pine paneling also is a natural; complementary accessories may include pottery, pewter, brass, and iron. A strip of decorative ceramic tiles in Early American motifs will add a note of color around the fireplace opening. Decorative tiles are available through local ceramic tile dealers.

EGG WHITE

When you have an egg white leftover, you can use it to stretch whipped cream. Beat the egg white with a pinch of cream of tartar until foamy, then gradually beat in one-quarter cup of finely granulated sugar; continue beating until very stiff. Fold in a teaspoon of vanilla and one-half cup of cream that has been whipped. Serve with fresh berries or fruit cobblers.

PLACE ON RACKS

To cook bacon for a crowd, place separated slices on wire racks in shallow baking pans. Bake in a hot oven for about 10 minutes without turning.

BRUNET BEST?
Changes Personality

OR BLOND?
Nature Thought so

Do Tresses of a Different Hue Really Make a Changed, More Attractive You?

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
(Associated Press Fashion Writer)

The face in the mirror is you. You smile. It smiles. You bob your head. It bobs.

Yet you don't have the feeling within you which you think the devilish gypsy-ish woman in the looking glass would have. Ordinarily, you are mousey blonde, colorless and diffident.

You've topped your hair with a black wig to learn in a less drastic way than using dye whether personality really does change with the color of your hair.

At this point you don't know, for the personality of the brunette in the mirror hasn't sunk in.

You venture onto the street. Catching a glimpse of this different you in show windows, you begin to feel less timid, less inhibited in your disguise. You imagine everyone is eyeing you. You feel exhilarated. You certainly must be looking attractive.

Ah, you are beginning to feel like a sultry brunette. The personality of the girl in the mirror must be seeping in.

In the elevator on the way to the office the operator is not fooled by the wig. He groans at you unflatteringly. But you are beginning to like the new you, and you decide he's simply not with it.

Your co-workers are puzzled briefly. Then they overwhelm you with vehement protests.

"What have you done with yourself?"

"Women, women, women. What they won't do!"

"Frankly, maybe if I were used to you that way, I'd like it. But as it is. . ."

The brunette has plunged deep inside now, and you can easily brush off these remarks. People hate change, you reason. If you had been a brunette and suddenly gone glonde, they would be just as displeased.

Despite his disparaging comment about your hair a male friend takes you to a cocktail party. There, because he is still very disgruntled, you are left to your own devices. However, you feel marvelously socially secure — you, the devastating siren with the jet black hair.

Although you don't smoke, you borrow a cigaret because you think it fits your new character, and puff at it awkwardly.

Courageously you flash a friendly smile in the direction of a couple nearby. Suddenly you're talking with them. You're even being witty, you who never think of any good comeback until everybody's gone home. Your companions laugh with you. You feel wonderful.

Your date returns with a plate of hors d'oeuvres and also the suggestion, "Why don't you ditch that wig now?"

Dutifully you return from the powderroom again the meek blonde, your personality strength shorn like Samson.

But the people you were chatting with recognize you and think you are quite a card to pull such a joke. They guide you around telling everyone what a bon vivant you are. And you go right on exuding social confidence and gay repartee, just as if you still had those dark tresses on your head.

Home again, you pack away the wig thinking you'll switch it for another to wear when your blonde coiffure is not up to par . . . but you'll match your own hair color.

You've decided it's not what's outside but what's inside your head that really makes the difference in your personality.

Husbands Have Most Courage in Choosing Decor

Husbands have more courage to furnish the home in what one wife termed a "far out way" than do the wives, a recent query among club women revealed.

All agreed they hate to see another woman wearing a dress they own. They are positively embarrassed to be at a function where they are dressed the same as another woman.

"We live in a peas-in-the-pod type house," said one. To make hers different she and her husband shopped together, skipping over furniture styles their neighbors had. Several women brightened up and confessed they had done the same.

"There's as much difference in furniture styles as there is in clothes. There's no need for us to have the same tables and chairs as everyone we see all the time," declared a matron who had just gone through the refurnishing process.

"It isn't that you have to go to extremes like combining queer shapes and crazy colors. You just have to choose what you and your family like instead of copying what your friends bought" summed up a young mother.

Schoolmen Pass Budget, Slice Tax Millage

Spring City school board, which tentatively adopted the budget and set the tax rate for the year at its previous meeting, made it official Wednesday night.

Meeting in the Wall street elementary building, the board adopted the budget, totaling $291,835, and set the tax rate at 30 mills, a reduction of 18 mills over the past year. The new budget is $7579 more than the past year, when it was $284,256.

The Chester county real estate assessment equalization program was responsible in a large measure in enabling the board to slice the tax rate. Under the new assessment, Spring City's real estate valuation was set at $3,730,678, compared with $2,565,811 the past year.

The board also set the personal tax rate at $10 and per capita at $5, the same as the past year.

TAX COLLECTOR Calvin M. Adams reported collections of $2121, leaving an outstanding balance of $2370.

The board charged the tax collector with the new tax duplicate for the year, totaling $136,570.

The board acknowledged receipt of $7200 from Spring City Methodist church, representing final payment for the old Broad and Church street elementary school building, which was sold to the church for the sum of $8000. A down payment of $800 was previously made.

The next meeting of the board will be Wednesday, July 12.

Your Horoscope

The Stars Say—By ESTRELLITA

For Today

PATIENCE and optimism will be needed now. Some delays may be encountered, or changes of plan indicated, but take these things in stride. Follow a realistic program, and avoid extravagance.

For The Birthday

If today is your birthday, the year ahead should bring great happiness in your personal life. Domestic, social and romantic matters should prove highly stimulating — especially during July, October and December — and there is a strong likelihood that, through travel (mostly in July), you will find opportunities for making many new and interesting friends.

Where job matters are concerned, excellent headway can be made through a comprehensive and well-planned program—if you launch it now, and follow through consistently. Advancement, with corresponding monetary reward, can be expedited by looking for new spheres of activity and showing a willingness to assume additional responsibilities. Don't sit back and wait for things to happen. Go after what you want—and look for exceptionally good results during July, October and December.

A child born on this day will be generous and idealistic but may become easy prey to discouragement.

History Leads Market Experts To Hope for Continued Advance

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street seems confident that summer will bring even better things for the stock market.

This is in the face of the sharp advance this spring.

On the basis of historical precedent, chances are better than 8-1 that the market will be higher in August than in early June, said Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisory service.

It pointed out that since 1897 there have been only seven years in which the Dow Jones industrial average didn't show a summer rally.

In those seven years the average decline was only 2.1 per cent while in the other 57 years the Dow showed an average gain of 12 per cent by the end of August.

"Difficult as summer rallies are to rationalize," said the service's president, Roger E. Spear, "the record is too strong to dismiss as mere coincidence. And, although the Dow has recently penetrated into new ground, we believe there is a strong possibility of a summer rally."

The brokerage firm, Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., agrees that summer markets are almost invariably strong.

It said it expects that any reaction the market may suffer may occur in the near future and that it would be a buying opportunity.

"Antitrust activity at home and international developments abroad may give the market temporary pause but the unfolding financial and economic situations are accumulating strength that should find a reflection in higher prices," the firm said.

More than ever, from now on, market advances will be led by the stock of blue-chip companies whose earnings will rise rapidly with returning prosperity, comments Gerard Gersen of the advisory organization, Wall Street International.

The best gains will be in cyclical issues — companies whose earnings declined in the recession but which are now staging good comebacks, he says.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute finds it significant that in the past week's trading there has been emerging strength displayed by cyclical, quality stocks and declining interest in both high-priced and low-priced speculative issues.

"We regard this as a needed, stabilizing development which, coupled with gradually improving business and further proposed government spending, makes the continued holding of selected stocks advisable," the Institute adds.

The Point Spread...

By WARREN HOWARD
(Mercury Sports Writer)

LEROY FIZZ, WHO WAS IN Indianapolis, Ind., for the "500" Tuesday, spotted Howie Bedell watching the pre-race parade last Saturday afternoon. Bedell, who plays baseball with the Louisville Colonels of the American association, wasn't taking a holiday. His team was also in the speedway city for a series with the Indianapolis Indians. Fizz took in a double-header between the Colonels and Indians, in which Bedell collected three hits in seven trips to the dish. For the year, he is hitting .280 . . . Bobby Marshman, who finished sixth in the "500" after almost missing the race when his first trip to the speedway didn't bring forth any offers of cars, said that after he passed his driver's test in the minimum amount of laps, he had "three or four other offers." He turned them down however, preferring to stick with Hoover, who brought him back to the speedway after he had given up and hopped a plane home to Sanatoga . . . Marshman's father, George, hopped a plane to "Indy" Wednesday, to take in the victory banquet, at which time the "rookie of the year" will be named. Figures the running is between Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., one of the early pacesetters, Australia's Jack Brabham, who finished ninth, and Marshman.

HOWIE BEDELL

THE YOUNGER MARSHMAN HOWEVER, said Tuesday night that he wouldn't be too disappointed if he didn't receive the honor. Sounds logical. Marshman's sixth-place finish will pay more in the way of physical dividends, and his entry into the exclusive 100-mile-an-hour club will take care of the recognition . . . Remember that trade in which the St. Louis Cardinals sent Dick Ricketts and four other players to Buffalo of the International league for Don Landrum? Somebody must be disappointed, and it isn't Buffalo. The Cardinals optioned Landrum to a minor league affiliate Tuesday, while Ricketts is off to a fast start with Buffalo . . . Bob McIlvain of The Hill school can glean some consolation from the fact that he was running against virtually the best that the Eastern U.S. had to offer last Tuesday. But the consolation is small for one who ran the best mile of his life, lopping some 5.4 seconds (unofficial) off his previous best, and it was only good for fourth place.

OF NOTE CONCERNING Tuesday's "500:" The Racing Associates' special, which was driven by the late Johnny Thomson of Boyertown a year ago, "swallowed" a valve again this year, and failed to finish. The new Hoover Motor Express special, which was driven by Don Branson, turned in only one lap. Thomson, who had quit the Racing Associates' group last Summer, was under contract to Hoover, and would probably have been driving the latter machine Tuesday . . . Flatty Spaar and Chris Baum bested Joe Moulder and George Moore Jr., to win the Jay Lanes All Star doubles bowling rolloff, 1147-1093, though the winners held only a three-pin edge after the first two games. Spaar had the top triple—597—and the high single, 206. The losers were plagued with splits. Baum—who had a 203 average in the second half of the season—failed to shoot his average, with a top single of 192 . . . Spaar and Baum have now challenged any team in the area to a match.

THE AMERICAN LEGION STEELERS will open their season with Downingtown next Wednesday at Enterprise field, instead of Sunday, as previously reported. The Steelers will be bidding for their fourth straight Ches-Mont league crown . . . New league entries this year will be Coatesville and West Chester, joining the Steelers, Spring City, Phoenixville, Collegeville and Downingtown . . . The league officially opens Sunday night . . . The distance in the George Fonder Memorial miget race June 10 at Hatfield will be 50 laps. The race—run annually as a memorial to the driver killed at Hatfield two years ago—awards a nice chunk of the proceeds to the late Fonder's mother, herself an ardent racing fan. And how was YOUR holiday.

Garrigan Clouts Solo Homer for 2d Tally

Jack Cameron's double in the fifth inning sent Denny Cottone racing home with the first run of the game, as Bishop Kenrick shaded St. Pius X, 2-0 Wednesday afternoon at Memorial park.

Cameron's double broke up what had been an air-tight pitching duel between Nick Petro of the Saints and Eddie Duffy of the Golden Knights.

The Knights added turpentine to the Saints' wounds an inning later when Terry Garrigan banged a bases-empty homer to the deepest regions of right field.

The loss was the third of the year for the Saints — who had beaten the Knights 4-2 last week in Norristown — and virtually ended any Suburban Catholic league title aspirations entertained by the Keim Streeters.

PETRO, LIKE Duffy, surrendered only four hits, but the Saints' lefty was in trouble a goodly portion of the game, due to wildness. He passed eight during the game.

Cottone however, reached first on an error by Third Sacker Johnny Katona. Duffy fanned for the first out, but Cameron then doubled down the left field line, sending Cottone streaking for the plate.

The throw — cut off by Shortstop Ken Stutz — then caught the sliding Cameron attempting to stretch his blow into three bases.

Petro got out of further trouble by coaxing Gus Sergio into skying out to right field.

THE FIRST two batters in the sixth inning also hit fly balls to the outfield, before Garrigan banged his home run to the unused scoreboard in right, which measures 370 feet.

Fran Blanche, batting for Joe Ciccaroe, then tagged another Petro offering for a triple, but Mike McBrien left him stranded by popping out to third.

The Saints had a pair of runners on via infield singles in the first inning, but were never able to put back-to-back runners on in any ensuing inning until the fifth, when Duffy passed Ed Kelly and Katona to lead off the inning.

The Saints also had two runners on in the seventh with two out, but Duffy fanned Denny Psota to end the game.

Redlegs Outlast Dodgers On Lynch Single In 9th, 8-7, Farrell Bows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Lynch's RBI single in the ninth inning Wednesday night and Gene Freese's two-run homer in the eighth turned out to be the difference as the Cincinnati Reds defeated Los Angeles 8-7 and kept abreast of the first place San Francisco Giants in the torrid National League race.

The win was the sixth straight for Cincinnati and the sixth consecutive victory for pitcher Joey Jay, although he needed relief in the last two innings.

A crowd of 13,143 sat in chilly weather in Memorial Coliseum.

The loss kept the Dodgers in third place and they lost percentage points in the three-way league battle.

Weise Gets Post As Bonnie Coach

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—St. Bonaventure university Wednesday tapped a 24-year-old alumnus, Larry Weise of Rochester, to succeed Eddie Donovan as head coach of basketball.

The youthful and personable Weise signed a one-year contract that advances him from a parttime coach of high school junior varsity to a major college powerhouse.

He inherits a team that is not expected to reach the heights of last season's Bonnies, who finished the season ranked third in the Nation. But there are enough veterans returning to form a solid basis for a top club.

Weise never has coached a varsity team, college or high school. But his jay-vee team at East Rochester high school this year had a 16-0 record.

Weise was graduated from St. Bonaventure in 1958 with honors in physics. He has been teaching physics and mathematics at East Rochester this year, as well as coaching the junior varsity.

Donovan, named coach of the New York Knickerbockers in the National Basketball association three weeks ago, had Weise as the star of his first National Invitation team in 1957. The Bonnies had a 17-7 season, including a 2-2 mark in the NIT.

Ambiopoise is 'Likely' Entry in Belmont Field

NEW YORK, (AP)—Carry Back, whose come-from-far-behind victories made the Kentucky Derby and Preakness two of racing's most thrilling events, will find five and possibly six other 3-year olds seeking to thwart his bid for the triple crown Saturday in the Belmont stakes.

Racing secretary Tommy Trotter Wednesday listed seven as definite starters for the 1½-mile test at Belmont park. The possibility is Robert Lehman's Ampiopoise, who staged his own version of racing from behind in easily beating Crozier and Globemaster in Tuesday's Jersey derby at Garden State park.

Carry Back's margin over Crozier in the Kentucky Derby was less then a length and no more over Globemaster in the Preakness.

Ambiopoise won the Jersey Derby by 10 lengths. Trainer Tom Waller is inclined to give Ambiopoise a chance in the Belmont but deferred a definite commitment until he confers with Lehman.

WITH SEVEN starters the gross value of the 93d running of the stakes would be $146,150 with $102,400 going to the winner. No other Belmont winners ever earned that much.

Meantime, Carry Back was established the 3-5 choice to win the race and become the first horse since Citation in 1948 to wrap up the triple crown. Jack Price, who trains Carry Back for his wife, Mrs. Katherine Price, had the son of Saggy out for a two-mile gallop Wednesday morning.

"And I wish I had made it three miles," said Price. "He came back jumping and kicking."

Bal Musette, the King ranch colt who has yet to tangle with Carry Back has been made the second choice at 4-1. Ambiopoise also is a likely 4-1 choice if he accepts the issue.

Roberts Raked for 11 Hits, Suffers 7th Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Chicago Cubs eked out a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night to hand Robin Roberts, once ace of the Phillies' pitching staff, his seventh consecutive loss. He hasn't won this year.

Thus Roberts equaled the longest losing streak of his distinguished career — seven in a row back in 1957 when he sustained 22 setbacks.

Ron Santo brought in the winning run for the Cubs with a ninth inning single, after he had scored a tie-breaking run on a double by George Altman in the eighth.

Right - hander Bob Anderson (2-3) was the winner in relief of Dick Drott, but needed help from Don Elston when the Phils scored a run in the ninth.

Ernie Banks had three of the Cubs' 11 hits—all of them singles. He drove in a run in the first inning and helped set up scores in the third and seventh with his two other singles. Santo singled to count Anderson with an insurance run in the ninth.

Bucs Ink Rookie, Claim Witt Hurt

SHELBURNE FALLS, Mass., (AP)—Signing of David Wissaman, 20-year-old infielder by the Pittsburgh Pirates was announced Wednesday by Bob Whalen, Pirates' scouting supervisor in New England, New York and Eastern Canada.

Wissaman was a high school star in football, basketball and baseball and just completed his Freshman year at University of Bridgeport in Connecticut. During his high school varsity playing he had a .410 batting average.

Whalen said Wissaman signed for an undisclosed bonus. He will report June 10 to the Kingsport, Tenn., club of Appalachian league.

The Pirates also asked Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to place Pitcher George Witt on the disabled list for 30 days.

Marshman Protest Disallowed

Foyt's '500' Win Worth $110,400

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP) — A. J. Foyt's victory in the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race won for the handsome Texan and owners of his car a record $110,400.

The 33 drivers, some in bandages but all present, met Wednesday night to cut a $392,925 pie—also a record.

Foyt's prize was $1400 more than Jim Rathmann won last year, and the total purse compared with $369,150 in 1960. Second place winner Eddie Sachs collected $53,400.

Sharing with Foyt were Co-Owners Bob Bowes, Indianapolis manufacturer, and George Bignotti, Burlingame, Calif., master mechanic and designer. Foyt got the Thunderbird pace car.

JIM RATHMANN'S $5270 prize for 30th place was a considerable drop from the $100,000 for winning the 1960 classic.

Australian Jack Brabham, World racing champion, took home $7250 and the Peugeot trophy, presented for the outstanding performance by a foreign driver.

The Indianapolis Motor speedway contributed $295,100 (it guarantees $150,000 and adds a share of gate receipts. By tradition, however, the attendance figure is secret.)

Lap prizes totaled $30,000, raised by private subscription, and accessory firms contributed $67,825. In addition, merchandise prizes totalling thousands, were awarded the drivers.

FINAL OFFICIAL standings in Tuesday's race, posted Wednesday after an all night study of the electric timing tape, showed both winner Foyt and runnerup Sachs broke the race record.

It also turned up an almost incredible one-lap record by Troy Ruttman, the 1952 winner.

Ruttman roared through the 91st lap of the race at 147.589 miles an hour, faster than any of the 33 starters averaged in the 10-mile time trials when they were alone on the track.

Foyt's average for the distance was 139.130 miles an hour; Sach's 139.041. The old mark was 138.767 by Jim Rathmann in winning the 1960 race. Rathmann also had held the speedway one lap competitive record of 146.128, set last year on the 197th lap—just 7½ miles from the end.

The official standings made four changes in positions listed unofficially at the end of the race. Al Keller jumped from eighth to fifth place. That dropped Chuck Stevenson from fifth to sixth, Rookie Bobby Marshman from sixth to seventh and Lloyd Ruby from seventh to eighth.

Marshman filed the only protest and it was disallowed by officials of the United States auto club, sanctioning body for the race.

Marshman, Jones Named 'Rookies'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Parnelli Jones of Torrence, Calif., and Bobby Marshman of Pottstown, Pa., Wednesday night were named "rookies of the year" at the Indianapolis Motor speedway.

It was the first time in the history of the award that two drivers won the honor. Sportswriters, sportscasters and racing officials selected the winner and their vote resulted in a tie for the two first year men in the 500-mile Memorial Day race at the speedway.

Stark & Wetzel and company, Indianapolis meat packing firm that sponsors the award, announced Jones and Marshman would receive duplicate awards —$500, a trophy and a year's supply of meat.

Jones led part of race before his Agajanian special developed engine trouble and he suffered a cut eye. Marshman started in 33d position and had worked his way up to seventh spot when the race ended. Jones finished 12th.

Long (90-1) Shot Captures English Derby

EPSOM, England, (AP)—Psidium, a 66-1 and 90-1 long shot, came from last place in a field of 28 and won the 182nd English derby Wednesday in the biggest upset in nearly half a century.

French Jockey Roger Poincelet, last with a mile to go, took him through the pack unnoticed and flashed to the front 150 yards from the finish. He won by two lengths from Ditca Drake (10-1) with American-owned Pardao (12-2) third, a neck away.

The tote—British equivalent of pari-mutuel betting—paid odds of 90-1 against Psidium. Bookmakers had Psidium at 66-1. It was the most sensational derby since 1913, when 100-1 Aboyeur was the winner.

The most surprised person in the crowd of 250,000 thronging Epsom Downs in bright sunshine was Psidium's owner, Mrs. Arpad Pleasch, wife of a Hungarian financier who lives in the South of France.

"I NEVER expected he would finish in the first ten," Mrs. Pleasch said. "I never even bet on him."

The victory brought her a first prize of $96,734.

An Irish hospital sweepstakes was based on the results of the classic for 3 year old colts and fillies.

Bookmakers cleaned up on Psidium's victory even though the derby was rated a wide open race this year. Heaviest backing in the pre-race betting went on the American-owned Moutiers, which finished out of the first 12, Dicta Drake, Pardao, Just Great, Sovrango, Time Greine and Dual.

"THIS IS a terrific surprise," said Bookmaker Alfred Cope. "Even in an open derby where backers were looking for long shots I had very few bets of any size on Psidium.

The first three horses are owned by women. Dicta Drake belongs to Mrs Suzy Volterra, who won the derby with his sire, Phil Drake, in 1955 She collected $10,886 for second place.

Pardao earned third money of $5163 for Mrs. C. O. Iselin, of Glen Head, N.Y.

The race dealth another blow to the hopes of Mrs. Strassburger, the American whose horse Moutiers started a clear favorite at 5-1.

Mrs. Strassburger is the widow of the Norristown, Pa., publisher.

The other two American entries finished out of the first 12. They were Neanderthal, owned by C. Mahlone Kline of Ambler, Pa., and Ploermel, owned by Herbert Allen, of New York. Ploermel was last.

Bluebirds Boot 11, Drop 11-1 I-C Tilt

Lower Moreland took advantage of 11 errors by Schwenksville to upend the Bluebirds 11-1 on the victors diamond Wednesday.

Randy Keener pounded out a two bagger for Lower Moreland to ignite a six run sixth inning. But the game was sewed up back in the first inning when the Lions took off on a three run spree, thanks to Schwenksville's wild throws.

Joe Ervin led off the first with a walk and Mickey Pearson followed with a grounder that the third baseman threw wildly to first.

The first baseman followed with another stray heave and by the time the play ended both Ervin and Pearson crossed the plate.

THE LIONS did get one earned run in the inning. Pete Zern singled, stole second and sailed home on Bill Steidle's hit. Schwenksville tallied it's only run in the third.

Will Clossen — who was the mound victim of the shoddy play — singled and came home on a two-bagger by Al Rowland.

Lower Moreland came up with six insurance runs in the sixth.

Cirn was safe on an error to start the inning. Keener doubled him home and scored on Steidle's single. Jim Worthington and Joe Boerner connected with singles. Chuck Mills drilled a double and stole third, then home for the 11th run.

Pottsgrove JH Clinches Title Tie With 3-1 Win Over Lower Moreland

Pottsgrove Junior high clinched at least a tie for the title in its Central Montco league Wednesday, with a 3-1 victory over Lower Moreland JH on the winners' lot.

Two-hit pitching by George Smith, coupled with John Psota's two RBI singles brought victory to the Junior Falcons, who close out their card today at Conshohocken.

Ron Favinger—who batted in the Falcons' first run and scored what proved to be the winning tally, will go to the hill for the Falcs today.

Pine Swamp edged Colebrookdale 1-0 in a pitchers duel in the Church League encounter Wednesday at Memorial park diamond 1.

The Swampmen gathered only three hits off the slants of Ron Ludy but managed to tally the winning run in the fourth inning. Pete Nelson — who slapped out two of the three Pine hits — singled and scampered home later in the inning on a sacrafice fly off the bat of Dick Favinger.

Colebrookdale's forces garnered five hits off winner John Hart but were unable to cross home plate with the tying run. Hart fanned seven and issued only one free ticket in his seven inning stint. Ludy registered six strike outs against two walks.

Colebrookdale left seven men stranded on the base paths. Jack Painter singled for the third Pine Swamp hit off Ludy. All of the hits in the nip and tuck battle were singles.

Shamrocks' Rush In 5th Nets 6-2 Junior Loop Win

The Shamrocks scored three times in the fifth inning to break a 2-2 tie and went on to defeat ABC, 6-2 in the Junior League opener at Memorial park's diamond 2 Wednesday night.

Steve Keller pitched and batted the Shamrocks to the win. He collected 3 hits in as many trips, including a triple and allowed just one hit in going the distance to gain the mound decision.

Pitcher George Trout got the only hit off Keller. He poled a double in the losing cause. Larry Cutilo was a demon on the base paths. The ABC first sacker stole four bases and scored one of the losers' runs.

Maris-Mantle Duo Bombs Yanks Past Red Sox 7-6

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris hammered home runs again as the aroused New York Yankees continued the bombardment against Boston with a 7-6 victory over the Red Sox Wednesday night.

Mantle, entering the game tied for the American League home run lead, put the game away for the Yankees with his 14th of the year—a two-run shot that capped a five-run fourth inning.

Maris, who like Mantle had hit two home runs as the Yankees crashed seven for a 12-3 victory here Tuesday, broke a 1-1 tie in this game with his 12th of the year in the third inning.

Rookie Ronnie Sheldon, a 24-year-old right-hander, gained his first major league victory, but needed late inning relief from Luis Arroyo and Danny McDevitt. McDevitt put down a ninth-inning rally by the Red Sox, retiring Vic Wertz on a game-ending double play with the tying run on third.

Sheldon allowed five hits in his 6 2-3 innings, two each by Frank Malzone and Wertz.

Malzone, mired at .147 in a batting slump, had two singles and a home run, driving in three runs.

Nuxhall Defeats League Leading Detroit by 6-4

DETROIT (AP)—Joe Nuxhall, a National League discard, pitched the Kansas City Athletics to a 6-4 triumph over the American League-leading Detroit Tigers Wednesday night and his battery mate Joe Pignatano banged out four of the winners' 13 hits.

Nuxhall limited the Tigers to seven hits in gaining his third victory in four decisions, although he was lifted in the eighth inning. The defeat was Detroit's fifth in seven games.

Pignatano hit his third home run, a double and two singles, driving in three runs and scoring twice. His two-run homer off starter Frank Lary got the Athletics away to a 2-0 lead in the second inning. His single drove home Leo Posada with the run that made it 3-0 in the fourth.

The Tigers battled back and gained a tie on a solo homer by Chico Fernandez and a two-run poke by Steve Boros. Pignatano's single started a three-run rally that finally downed the Tigers in the seventh.

LA Dumps Senators 5-3 On 12th Inning Double

WASHINGTON (AP) — Los Angeles finally broke its 13 road-game losing streak Wednesday night by beating the Washington Senators, 5-3, in 12 innings, before 10,873 fans.

The game was settled when Ken Aspromonte doubled to the far left field corner to drive in Ed Sadowski, who had walked.

Aspromonte scored on a single to right field by Leon Wagner. Ted Bowsfield, fifth Los Angeles pitcher, disposed of the Senators in the 12th.

The Angels won the season's opener at Baltimore and hadn't won away from home since.

The defeat broke Washington's home-game streak of seven wins and a four game winning streak.

Bowsfield, who pitched the final two innings, picked up his first victory against one loss. Marty Kutyna, the third Washington pitcher suffered his first defeat after three wins.

Giants Shade Cards, 3-2 On Bases-Loaded Roller

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Amalfitano beat out a dribbler with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning Wednesday, giving San Francisco's Giants a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jim Davenport, on base with his third walk of the day, scored the winning run, boosting the Giants half a game ahead of Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

The victory went to Stu Miller, now 4-0, who was working in relief for the fifth consecutive day. Miller came on in the seventh inning with two Cardinals on base and none out and didn't allow a hit the rest of the way.

Curt Simmons (2-4) was the loser. He worked eight innings and left the game in the ninth after Davenport led off with his walk and Jose Pagan singled. Southpaw Mickey McDermott got pinch hitter Jim Marshall on a pop foul.

With pinch hitter Matty Alou batting, McDermott wild-pitched and the giant runners moved to third and second. They stayed there as Matty bounced out to third. Felipe Alou was walked intentionally before Amalfitano beat out his roller, which went only about half way down the third base line.

The Cardinals opened the scoring in the fifth on a single by Hal Smith and a two-out triple by Julian Javier. They made it 2-0 in the sixth on Ken Boyer's double, a sacrifice bunt by Carl Warwick and Joe Cunningham's sacrifice fly.

Miller stopped the Card threat in the seventh by fanning Curt Flood, and Red Schoendienst lined into a double play.

Pirates Cop 9-1 Win Over Braves On Gibbon Stint

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Southpaw Joe Gibbon pitched a six-hitter and fanned 10 for the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night as they snapped a five-game losing streak with a 9-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The Pirates walloped eight doubles in their 14-hit attack.

Gibbon, now 4-2 scattered only five singles until the eighth when the Braves' Henry Aaron hit a solo home run over the left field wall, his ninth.

Gibbon walked three. He fanned Eddie Mathews four times.

It was the first time Gibbon had pitched a complete game in the majors.

Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski each had two of the Pirates' doubles. Even Gibbon got in on the two-bagger act, socking a two-run double in the fourth.

Milwaukee's starter, southpaw Warren Spahn, looking for his sixth victory, was tatooed for eight hits before he was lifted in the fifth. The loss was his fourth.

Dressen Bares Discipline Problem, Players Face Block

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Milwaukee Manager Charlie Dressen admitted Wednesday night that he has a disciplinary problem on his Braves baseball club but declined to reveal its nature and what players were involved.

The veteran manager became irate Tuesday night when some of the players set fire to newspapers while going from the Philadelphia baseball park to the airport to catch a plane for Pittsburgh. He told the men that "some of you will be gone after June 15". The last date for trades is June 15.

Dressen said shortly before the Braves lost to the Pirates 9-1 here Wednesday night that he had fined "three or four" of the Braves in the past but declined to identify them.

"But everyone on our club knows who they are, and so do the players on other clubs. Here's what I told them in this respect: 'If any reporter prints the story, I'll deny it. Then if the writer tells me who told him, I'll fine him (the player), too.'"

DRESSEN ADDED that he plans to establish a fine of $500 for anyone missing a bus or plane. He also threatened to fine any player up to $1000 who failed to be in by the 1 o'clock curfew after a game.

Dressen, obviously irked by his teams record of 19-19 for the season, added that "we're definitely better than that."

"Up to now we've been playing tiddle winks," he said, "and we're still only 4½ games out. But we still need pitching to stay in contention."

The manager said that he would discuss the club's disciplinary problem with General Manager John McHale when the team returns to Milwaukee Friday.

Chisox Batter Orioles On Smith, Landis HRs

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, who had scored only once in 24 innings, Wednesday night got rolling behind the pitching of Frank Baumann and homers by Al Smith and Jim Landis to pile up a 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The Sox victimized five Baltimore pitchers for 10 hits in snapping a three game losing streak. They struck for two runs off Chuck Estrada in the first inning on three walks, a passed ball and a single by Wes Covington, who drove in three runs.

The Sox disposed of Estrada in a three-run third inning geared to Smith's ninth homer that scored Covington ahead of him.

Bednarik Signs 13th Pact With Philadelphia '11'

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — Chuck Bednarik, whose two-way play highlighted the Philadelphia Eagles' drive to last year's National Football league championship, Wednesday signed for his 13th year of pro play.

Bednarik came to terms with General Manager Vince McNally of the Eagles after a brief discussion. When he plays his first game next season, the linebacker and offensive center will equal the club record for longevity. Vic Sears and Frank (Bucko) Kilroy each played 13 seasons.

Only three active pros outrank the indestructible center in years of NFL service, Emlen Tunnell of Green Bay, Chuck Conerly of New York and Bobby Layne of Pittsburgh, all heading for their 14th year in the league.

Last season, the former Penn All-America probably set some kind of modern pro record, playing 394½ minutes, including 52½ minutes at Cleveland; 51¼ against the Giants and 58 in the title game against Green Bay.

Warriors' Hatton Goes to Packers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Warriors Wednesday sold Vern Hatton, former Kentucky star to the new Chicago Packers of the National Basketball association for a price slightly over the $500 waiver figure.

Owner Eddie Gottlieb also announced he had asked waivers on former Temple ace, Bill Kennedy, and signed Joe Ruklick and Al Attles to 1961-1962 contracts.

Hatton, used mostly as a utility player, has been with the Warriors for 2½ seasons, coming here from the Cincinatti Royals during the 1958-1959 campaign.

Attles, a North Carolina A. and T. alumnus, tallied 541 points for Philadelphia last season, his first in the NBA. Ruklick hasn't seen much action. He's Wilt Chamberlain's understudy.

Hatton played in 54 games last year scoring 240 points. The 25-year-old backcourtman tallied 307 points the previous season. He was used mostly in relief of playmaker Guy Rodgers.

Honest Japanese Recover Payroll

TOKYO (AP)—Yoshiyuki Otsuka, director of an optical glass wholesale company, had just walked out of a Tokyo bank with a 350,000 yen payroll for his 15 employes when a wind gust scattered the bills in all directions.

Bank employees rushed to his aid. Searching tree branches, side walks, and nooks and crannies between buildings, they recovered all but six of his 10,000-yen notes.

Otsuka went back to the bank to wait.

A factory worker showed up with a note.

A drugstore proprietress and a pair of 11-year-old school boys walked in with others.

Finally, an office worker turned up with the 35th and last bill.

It had taken Otsuka an hour and a half to get his money back.

17 Youngsters Survive Tough Spelling Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventeen youngsters—12 girls and five boys—waded through a barrage of tough words Wednesday to gain Thursday's finals in the 34th annual National Spelling Bee.

The 17, regional champions all, survived 11 rounds and 551 words which took a toll of 56 of the original 73 contestants.

The finals will determine the national champion and other winners of cash prizes totaling $5,850.

Boys, who have been bested by the girls in winning championships in years past, didn't improve their numerical ratio. There were almost half as many boys as girls—24 and 49—at the start Wednesday. And there were still less than half at the end of the preliminary rounds.

Advancing to the final rounds were two 13-year-old girls who came back this time for a second try. Gayle Fehr, an eighth-grader at LaSalette Academy, Covington, Ky., finished 69th last year. Karen Grimm, a student at Franklin Junior High in Reisterstown, Md., was 39th two years ago.

Also standing up to the best of them in the opening rounds was the youngest regional champion of all—Steven Palmer, just 10 years old. He is a fifth-grader from Vernon, Tex.

The 56 spelled down tripped in many cases on tricky and unusual words. These included such formidable ones as immitigable, aleatory, antilogy, chymous, peregrinate and consanguineous.

101 Guns Greet Kennedys in Paris

PARIS (AP)—The cry of "Vive Jacqueline" sounded in Paris amid the boom of 101 guns greeting President and Mrs. Kennedy Wednesday.

Parisians were happy to acclaim the American First Lady as one of their own — an American with French ancestry who once studied in Paris. There were ohs and ahs when she appeared, and comments of "belle" and "charmante."

But Parisians had to look quickly to see her. The French police gave Mrs. Kennedy's motorcade a fast dash through the Paris streets, reaching speeds of more than 45 miles an hour in the busy traffic.

One car in her eight-car motorcade nudged a woman in the crowd as it whipped up to the curb at a baby care center. The woman was unhurt, and she just turned and smiled and went on pressing for a look at Mrs. Kennedy.

The expected car with a plastic top didn't turn up for Mrs. Kennedy, and it was hard to catch a glimpse of her in a closed limousine.

President Charles de Gaulle himself made special note of "gracious" Mrs. Kennedy in his welcome address. He gave her a personal gift, a gold-trimmed evening bag and an autographed picture of himself in a silver frame.

Mrs. Kennedy shared her husband's 35-minute motorcade from the airport to the royal apartments at the Quai D'Orsay, where they are staying for the three-day state visit.

The windows of the Quai D'Orsay rattled to the boom of the 101-gun salute as they drove up, escorted by 200 Republican Guards on horseback and in colorful Napoleonic uniforms.

The guardsmen paid their own tribute to Mrs. Kennedy, too, saluting her with raised swords when she came to join her husband and President de Gaulle for luncheon.

A horsewoman, Mrs. Kennedy must have noted the guardsmen's mounts were carefully groomed and their coats trimmed in checkerboard pattern.

After an overnight flight from New York, Mrs. Kennedy arrived in a pale blue wool coat and matching pillbox hat. The wind whipped her famous hairdo.

Mrs. Kennedy changed into a yellow silk suit with a yellow straw, roll-brimmed pillbox hat for lunch and to go on the trip to inspect the Ecole de Puericulture of the Faculty of Medicine of Paris.

The center specializes in premature babies. And, Mrs. Kennedy, whose son John Jr., was born prematurely six months ago, alternately viewed with sympathy and delight the babies in incubators and bassinettes behind glass windows. She tickled the toes of a naked 6-month old baby girl who was being examined.

* * *

Mrs. Kennedy said she was terribly disappointed not to have had an opportunity during her student days in Paris to have attended the infant care school herself. Mrs. Kennedy spent a year studying the history of art at the Sorbonne, the University of Paris.

About 800 people had gathered outside the center and they cheered and applauded Mrs. Kennedy.

After the showing of a recorded interview on TV here Tuesday night, Le Figaro declared she spoke a perfect French with a charming accent.

France Soir declared Kennedy and "his ravishing wife" resemble two young people on vacation and all the protocol seems out of place.

Mrs. Kennedy found her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London, in the airport welcoming group. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's mother, also was at the airport.
